Conscripts to Colors Sept. 1

OVER 200,000 MEN TO BEGIN TRAINING IN CANTONMENTS

Provost Marshal General Crowder Wires Governors to Speed Work of Conscripting So the Quotas May Be Ready.

NEW AND DRASTIC RULE REGARDING DEPENDENTS

War Department Hopes to Reduce Claims for Exemption--Proposed for Parents to Support Wives of Sons to Allow Latter to Go to War.

Washington, August 8.—More than 200,000 men of the selective draft forces will be called to the colors September 1 to go into their divisional training cantonments. This will bring the strength of the United States army on that date up to practically 1,000,000 men.

Crowder to the Governors.

Brigadier General Crowder, provost marshal general, dispatched the following telegram to the governors of the states today, cautioning them to make certain that the first one-third of their quota of the first increment of registered men is ready in time:

"New regulations governing mobilization and the certification of men from district boards to adjutants general will be mailed to you on August 9. In the meantime, local boards should certify to district boards daily those who have been called and who have not been exempted or discharged either because they failed to file any claim or because their claim has been decided adversely.

"Strict compliance with this rule is necessary, since on September 1 the war department will call for not to exceed one-third of the quota from each state to be entrained for mobilization camps between September 1 and 5. Unless we wish to be put in a position of not furnishing men as fast as the war department is ready to receive them, each state should have accumulated by September 1 a minimum of one-third of its quota not exempted or discharged. This can only be attained if local boards certify these lists up with great expedition."

General Crowder also sent this additional caution to examining physicians of the local boards:

"Surgeon general advises that in order to prevent the terrible ravages which result from the introduction into eyes known as trachoma, the lids of every recruit be everted to insure the absence of this disease and that any border lines or suspicious cases be referred to an ophthalmic surgeon especially qualified in this line."

New Ruling on Dependent Exemptions.

The messages were followed up by a new ruling regarding exemption be-

WORK COMPLETED IN FIFTH DIVISION ON THE FIRST CALL

Chairman Nutting Estimates That Sixty Men Will Be Secured for Army Service Out of First 272 Summoned.

OFFICIAL LIST ISSUED FOR SEVENTH DIVISION

Exemption Boards Tighten Up on Claims and a Number of Men, Who Sought Excuse From Service, Turned Down.

All examinations of drafted men included in the first call were completed in Atlanta Wednesday when the local exemption board for division No. 5 (sixth ward) completed examining its first batch of men called.

Chairman J. R. Nutting estimated the results as follows:

Called—272 men.

Examined—240.

Quota required—136.

Physically deficient and others claiming exemptions—190.

Physically fit and claiming no exemptions—50.

May Certify Sixty.

These fifty men who passed their exams and claimed no exemptions will constitute the number to be certified to the district board as subject to the call for the army. Chairman Nutting said this number would possibly be increased to 60 out of the 272 called by including some who did not report for examinations, and are to be certified for the service in the same manner as those who passed and claimed no exemptions, and by denying some of the exemption claims of others.

It will be necessary for this division to issue a call for 200 more men before it will be able to supply its quota for the first national army. The call will be issued next Saturday by mailing notices to the men. They will report for examinations on the following Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Monday's examinations—which was the first day's work for this division—indicate that fully 75 men would be secured out of the first call men, for only 10 per cent of those examined on this day were disqualified because of physical deficiencies.

However, the reverse of this condition of few physical deficiencies was experienced on Tuesday and Wednesday. Of those examined in division No. 5 on these two days 50 per cent were disqualified because of physical deficiencies.

"Of course, it will be impossible to live up to what we expected from the excellent showing made on the first day's exams," said Chairman Nutting. "We will now be able to only get about 50 out of the 240 examined, and about 10 more out of the men not reporting and those whose exemption claims will be denied, who will be certified to the district board as subject for the first call for the army.

Why Men Are Disqualified.

"The white men in this ward were thrown down because of underweight and having bad teeth. Negroes are being thrown out in wholesale because of bad teeth and disqualifying diseases."

Chairman Nutting pointed out that it was important for the drafted men to keep up with their serial numbers and the order in which they are to be called.

"Many men," he said, "pay no attention to the order in which their serial number has been drawn. They know that if they are traveling men and out of the city, or sick, or can show other good cause for not reporting on time to their examinations, the board will permit them to stand their examinations later. But, seven days after notice is mailed to a draft man to appear for examination, he is not allowed to file any claim for exemption."

This board will be able to pass upon some of the exemption claims before Saturday night. All for physical discharges, which require a second examination, will be passed upon before Friday night.

The cross-index system of filing cards, so as to be able to tell immediately in what order a man's serial number appears in his division, has been completed in Division No. 5. In most of the divisions only list for a part of the serial numbers drawn have been completed.

The local board for Division No. 7 (eighth and ninth wards) has completed passing upon exemption claims, and has certified to the district board the names of men who are put into the

FOOD CONTROL PASSED; WILSON WILL APPOINT HOOVER CONTROLLER

Measures Relating to Food Become Laws Friday—Final Vote in Senate Was 66 For and 7 Against.

HARDWICK CAST VOTE AGAINST FOOD CONTROL

Besides Control of Food, Fuel, Fertilizer and Farm Equipment, the Measure Also Carries Drastic Prohibition Features.

Washington, August 8.—The food bill passed through the last stage of legislative enactment at 4 o'clock this afternoon when it was finally adopted by the senate in form previously approved by the house. President Wilson's signature now makes it law.

The vote was 66 to 7.

Those voting against the conference report were: Democrats, Hardwick, Hollis and Reed; republicans, France, Gronna, La Follette and Penrose.

Immediately after the final vote on the control bill, the senate by a viva voce vote also approved the conference report on the first administration food bill, providing for a food survey and appropriating to stimulate production.

Prompt Appointment of Hoover.

Both bills are to become laws Friday with President Wilson's approval. The delay was caused by adjournment of the house until Friday and necessity for the signing of the bills in open session by presiding officers of both houses. The senate recessed tonight until Friday, so that after Speaker Clark signs the bills upon reconvening of the house they may then by signed by the senate's presiding officer and immediately sent to the white house.

Prompt appointment of Herbert Hoover as food administrator and immediate operation under the the legislation is expected to follow. In addition to its comprehensive provisions for control of food, fuel, fertilizer and farm equipment, the control bill carries drastic prohibition features. Thirty days after it is approved it will be unlawful to use foodstuffs in the manufacture of distilled beverages or to import distilled spirits for beverage purposes, and the president will be empowered to commandeer for military purposes distilled liquors now held in bond and to regulate or restrict the use of foods in the manufacture of wine and beer.

Final Vote by Agreement.

The final vote in the senate was obtained by unanimous agreement to dispose of the bill late today and after four days' discussion of the conference report. In addition to the seven senators voting against the bill, Senator Gore, chairman of the senate agriculture committee, and Senator Sherman, republican, were paired and did not vote. Both announced that had they been at liberty to vote they would have rgeistered in the negative.

Of the absent and paired senators announcement was made in behalf of virtually all that they favored the final draft.

Contrary to expectations no motion to recommit the bill with instructions or other parliamentary objections were offered before the vote.

The senate's action virtually concludes work of congress on the administrative food legislative program initiated last May. It puts into the president's hands for personal use or delegation the most unusual and comprehensive powers and, according to many members of congress, marks the innovation of national socialistic experimen.

Opposition Was Bitter.

Consummation of the program followed the most bitter opposition and acrimonious debate in many years, centered in the senate, after the president had prevailed upon congress to lay aside virtually all work, and urged conclusion of the legislation by July 1 to deal with this year's crops.

The conference report on the food bill had been before the senate since last Saturday and the bill itself since June 18. The house passed the measure June 23, 365 to 5, after a week's debate. Opposition, led by Senators Reed and others, and the fight over the prohibition provisions, delayed the senate vote, 81 to 6, until July 21, further conferences requiring a week during which the president caused elimination of senate amendments for a food board of three members and a congressional committee to supervise war expenditures.

The first food measure, for a survey

INCREASED TOLL OF BRITISH SHIPS TAKEN BY U-BOATS

21 Vessels of More Than 1,600 Tons Sunk Last Week—Two Vessels of Less Than 1,600 Tons Lost.

London, August 8.—There was a slight increase in the loss of British merchant vessels by submarines or mines during the last week, according to the official summary issued tonight. Twenty-one British vessels of more than 1,600 tons and two vessels of less than 1,600 tons were sunk last week. Thirteen ships were attacked unsuccessfully. N fishing boats were lost.

The weekly statement of the admiralty follows:

"For the Week Ending August 5: Arrivals of all nationalities over 100 tons, 2,673; sailings, 2,796.

"British merchantmen sunk by mine or submarine over 1,600 tons, 21, including two the week ending July 29; under 1,600 tons, 2.

"Fishing vessels sunk, none.

"British vessels unsuccessfully attacked 13, including one the week ending July 22 and two the week ending July 29."

The number of vessels over 1,600 tons sunk last week is an increase of three over the number sunk in the previous week, when 18 were lost through submarines or mines. There is a decrease of one in the vessels of less than 1,600 tons, three having been reported lost the previous week. The total for the present report, 23, is an increase of two over the previous report, and is one less than the number reported last week for the week ending July 22, which was the highest since the week ending June 24, when 28 were lost.

Pacifist Arrested While Addressing Peace Gathering

Former U. S. Senator Works Denounces Arrest of O'Connell as Disgrace. David Starr Jordan at the Meeting.

San Francisco, August 8.—Daniel O'Connell, an attorney, was arrested here late today on a federal warrant charging resistance of the draft law. The warrant was served while he was addressing a meeting of the "American Conference for Democracy and Terms of Peace." The audience hissed the officer who made the arrest.

Former United States Senator John D. Works, of Los Angeles, arose and said:

"This arrest is a disgrace to the American people and is done for the purpose of intimidating thinking people."

Dr. David Starr Jordan, prominent pacifist, was in the audience.

Mrs. Alice Park, who was a member of the Ford peace party, and others present also denounced the arrest of O'Connell, who is an active member of the "People's Council of America," a pacifist organization under whose auspices the "conference for democracy" is being held.

Fourteen other persons are named in the warrant with O'Connell, three of whom have been arrested. O'Connell was released on $10,000 bail to await a hearing next week.

The arrest of O'Connell follows the receipt of a letter from John L. McNab, chairman of a local exemption board, by the United States district attorney, calling attention to the circulation among draft eligibles of documents which denied the constitutional rights of the government to draft men for military service.

"The battle is on and it will be a fight to a finish," declared O'Connell tonight. "We have every confidence of a complete victory on all points."

At the opening of the peace conference today, Dr. Jordan made a plea for democracy. He said it was not the purpose of the organization to oppose the course of the government in the war, but that "the war should be conducted only for the establishment of democracy and democratic principles throughout the world."

"Germany will not break as long as the German people believe the allies seek to overrun their country," he asserted.

The conference is the sixth of a series begun in New York.

PRICE EXTORTION WILL BE STOPPED BY GOVERNMENT

War Price Policy of the Administration Is Announced by the New War Industries Board.

PROTECTION ASSURED TO AMERICAN PUBLIC

Allied Governments, Also, to Get Supplies at Same Prices as United States. Prices Now Charged Pure Extortion.

Washington, August 8.—Definite assurances that the American public will be protected against profiteering and that the allied governments will get their war supplies at the same prices as the United States is contained in an announcement tonight of the administration's war price policy.

The pronouncement was made by the new war industries board, formed last week as a part of the Council of National Defense to have full charge of the government's war purchases. It made clear the administration's determination that there shall be no exorbitant war profits and at the same time stated the government's intention to see that industry receives fair prices for its products.

Prices Out of All Proportion.

Prices now charged for materials necessary to the industrial life of the nation are out of all proportion, the statement said, to the cost of production. "Unconscionable profits," it is declared, are made on national resources entering into the manufacture of articles consumed by the public.

Already the administration is preparing for drastic action to reduce prices if negotiations with manufacturers fail to produce results. Robert S. Lovett, of the war board, who made public the statement, declared the government was ready for such a contingency and felt confident it could meet the situation. If possible, he said, it hoped to accomplish results without resort to legislation.

In the senate today Senator Pomerene introduced a bill to authorize the president to fix the prices of iron ore, iron, steel and their products and to regulate their production and sale through the federal trade commission. Full power to control the sale and distribution of foods, feeds and fuel was given to the government today in the final passage of the food control bill.

The administration's attitude in demanding that American manufacturers sell to the allies at the same prices as to this government is that since there is a common purpose and since the allies are buying their supplies with American money, justice requires that costs be equalized.

Two Restrictions to Be Enforced.

Two restrictions, however, will be enforced in selling to the allies. One is that the allies themselves must apply the same rule in selling to each other and to the United States, and the other is that the arrangement must be limited to articles actually used for war purposes. Officials hold that the last restriction is necessary as a protection to American industry and intend that no raw materials shall be sold abroad at low prices to be made up into manufactured goods and sold back into the United States in competition with American dealers.

The requirement that the allied governments force their own producers to sell to other governments at the same prices charged at home is to protect this government and at the same time to establish a system to prevent any one of the allied nations from profiting at the expense of its associates.

The war board believes that American manufacturers will accept the suggestion concerning prices to the allies without the use of force. It feels that the knowledge the government already has power or can procure it from congress will be sufficient to persuade producers to follow the board's suggestions.

The subject of prices to the public presents a harder problem, but administration leaders hold that the reduction of prices charged the government in itself tends to lower prices generally.

Statement by the Board.

The board's statement reads:

"It is the purpose of the war industries board to carry out the policy recently announced by the president, and with which the members of the board

Fatal Accident Occurs While Student Officers Are Shooting at Target

Shell Hits Soft Mud, on Side of Little Kennesaw, and, Failing to Explode, Ricochets Mile Out of Its Course, Dropping Near a Farmhouse. Mrs. Seth Harris, a White Woman, Is Instantly Killed, Three Negroes Are Slain, and Fourth Negro Is Badly Hurt Late Wednesday Afternoon.

ARMY OFFICERS ARE NOW MAKING THOROUGH PROBE OF THE ACCIDENT

Mrs. Harris Had Come to Farmhouse to Employ a Negro Servant and Had Remained to Watch Smoke From the Batteries—Target of Shells Had Been So Arranged That It Was Not Thought That There Would Be the Slightest Danger to the People of This Section—Army Ambulance Is Ordered to Scene.

BY BRITT CRAIG,
Staff Correspondent.

Marietta, Ga., August 8.—(Special.)—Four spectators, one a white woman, were killed, and a fifth injured just before dusk this afternoon at the base of Kennesaw mountain, when a percussion shell fired in target practice from a battery of the student officers' training camp battalion of artillery, richochetted a mile out of its course struck an oak tree and exploded at their feet.

A fragment of the shell pierced the left breast of Mrs. Seth Harris, a resident of the vicinity, and tore a gaping hole completely through her body. She was killed instantly, toppling from the buggy in which she had driven up to the spot. Smaller fragments injured the horse, but not seriously.

Bits of the shell penetrated the chest and abdomen of Charlie Martin, a negro laborer, aged 48 years, while a fragment tore out a part of his skull, killing him instantaneously.

James Holloman, Sr., another negro laborer, aged 40 years, was knocked unconscious, while his right leg was blown off above the ankle. He died at 10 o'clock tonight from loss of blood.

James Holloman, Jr., aged 17, a son of the elder Holloman, died shortly after the explosion from a severance of the femoral artery in the groin. His left foot was also blown off. He was dead when the first ambulance reached the scene.

Willie Henry Coleman, aged 20 years, a negro farmer, was painfully injured about both hands.

SHELL HITS SOFT MUD AND FAILS TO EXPLODE.

The cause of the tragedy is now being thoroughly investigated. Military experts agree that the deadly shell, having struck the soft mud near the target at which it was aimed, and failed to explode, bounced in the direction of the group of onlookers. It had been directed at a course fully one mile opposite from the spot at which it finally landed.

The shell was a 3-inch caliber metal explosive container, set off by percussion, and containing a heavy charge of nitrous composition, reputed to be an explosive even more powerful than gun-cotton or nitroglycerine. It was in the shape of a huge cartridge, and composed of steel sealed around the explosive. Fired from a 3-inch field piece, it exploded from contact.

It was the last shot of the day. Four guns had been in operation all morning and afternoon under command of an expert artillery officer from the United States field artillery forces. The battery was stationed more than a mile south of Kennesaw mountain and to the north of this city, on Dallas road.

The target at which the shots were aimed was located in the center of the southern side of Little Kennesaw mountain, a companion hill to Kennesaw.

The target had been thus arranged to prevent accidents. The shells, striking home, exploded in the breast of the mountain, thus causing no risks to life or property, and offering ideal advantages for range finding and fire control.

A mile, perhaps, to the west of the target is the scene of the tragedy—the farmhouse of David Cross on Burnt Hickory road, which skirts the base of Kennesaw.

The negro victims, at the end of their day's toil on the Cross estate, had gathered at the side of the road to listen to the roar of the field pieces, and watch the puffs of smoke which arose from the batteries below, and also from the shells as they burst when they struck Little Kennesaw. Charley Martin and the two Holloman negroes were standing on the roadside, when Mrs. Harris drove up in her buggy.

NEGRO FRIGHTENED BY UNEXPLODED SHELL.

They were presently joined by Willie Henry Coleman, the young negro who was injured. He had hurried to the spot from his home, nearby, when an unexploded shell had whizzed over the roof, having gone out of its course

SOLDIER FATHER DOESN'T YET KNOW OF BABY'S DEATH

Macon, Ga., August 8.—(Special.)—Charlotte Waterman Hillyer, 6-months-old daughter of Hansell Hillyer, in the officers' training camp at Fort McPherson, and granddaughter of L. P. Hillyer, banker, died at Gainesville, Ga., tonight. The family has been unable to notify the father. The body is being brought to Macon.

ROAD TAX $1 PER DAY.

House Passes Representative Davenport's Bill.

A bill by Representative Davenport, of Hall, which passed the house yesterday afternoon fixes $1 per day as the commutation road tax instead of 50 cents as heretofore

Mr. Davenport said that it was exceedingly unfair to the poor men of the state, who were unable to pay the tax and contributed their labor on the roads instead, that they should be allowed only 50 cents per day for their labor.

The resutl of the act, he said, would be for the county commissioners in the various counties to reduce the maximum number of days of work so that where the limit was now eight days or $4 commutation tax it would probably be four days. Then, if a man were unable to pay the tax, he would be compelled to give only four days' labor instead of eight.

in some unaccountable fashion, perhaps because of richochetting, as was the case with the fatal shell. The flight of this shell is being investigated by staff officers of the training camp forces.

Frightened at the unusual sound, the Coleman negro had joined the spectators at the roadside.

Mrs. Harris had come to the scene to employ Nettie Thomas, a negress servant in the David Cross home, and, after talking with the woman, had remained to watch the smoke from the batteries.

In the meantime Nettie Thomas, the negress, left the buggy of Mrs. Harris and went into the Cross home on an errand, an act which no doubt saved her life.

A moment later and the artillery students fired the day's final shot. They noticed that no explosion marked the arrival of the shell at its target, but this was overlooked, because of the fact that shells frequently strike soft substance and fail to burst, as had been the case with the previous discharge, when the shell did not explode at its target. This shell was the one which had frightened the lone survivor and had brought him to the scene where he was injured.

The officer candidates manning the guns in the valley below were unaware of the result of the shot for some time after the accident. The negress whose life had been saved made the call for help and doctors were called from Marietta. Ambulances from this city brought the wounded negroes and the body of Mrs. Harris to Marietta.

ORDERS ARMY AMBULANCE.

A representative of The Constitution went directly to the headquarters of Colonel Charles E. Noyes and his staff, more than a mile from Marietta, and perhaps three miles from the scene of the artillery practice, and notified him of the accident. Colonel Noyes immediately ordered Major Charles Duncan, commander of the hospital division of the training camp forces, to proceed to the scene with an army ambulance and hospital attaches.

By the time the military medical detachment had arrived the Marietta ambulances had removed the dead and injured to the city. Jim Hollomon, bleeding from a number of wounds, lingered until 10 o'clock, when death came.

Colonel Noyes organized an investigating board at nightfall, composed of Major Duncan, Lieutenant Colonel Lytle Brown, U. S. Engineers; Captain E. B. Gary, U. S. Infantry, and of Captain Anderson, infantry.

A verbal report was rendered to the effect that the only explanation of the accident was a richochetting shell, but a more thorough inquiry will be made into the affair this morning.

No action has been taken by Cobb county civil authorities, and it is understood the matter will be left in the hands of military officials. Experts agree that every precaution had been taken and that the accident could not have been guarded against.

Mrs. Harris, the first victim, was 40 years of age, and the wife of Seth J. Harris, a flagman on the Louisville and Nashville railway. The husband has been seriously ill for some time, and up to late tonight had not been informed of his wife's fate. No funeral arrangements have been made.

The nature of the wounds of the victims and the broadspread destruction cast by fragments of the shell, testify to the deadly power of the advanced explosive American artillerymen are being trained to fire on French battlefields. The fatal shell was of the modern type adopted by the American army, and which will be used when the men get into action against the Germans. In size, it is only a small cartridge, three inches in diameter, and perhaps twice as long—almost a pocket capsule of death.

It is propelled from the gun by a heavy charge of powder, and explodes by percussion.

Throughout the day's practice the candidate-artillerymen had been getting encouraging results in range finding, fore control and marksmanship. Great gullies had been torn in the bosom of Little Kennesaw in immediate vicinity of the target.

The student officers are now making a ten-day hike, which marks the completion of their three months' training for commissions.

Soldier Hit by Train.

Macon, Ga., August 8.—(Special.)—James Castleberry, of Fifty-third infantry, Fort Oglethorpe, was struck by a train here tonight. He sat down beside the railroad track to rest, he says, and thought that he was a safe distance from the rails. He says he had walked from Fort Oglethorpe. Doctors at the hospital say he will recover.

BRITISH STRIKING AT KAISER'S LINES ON FLANDERS FRONT

Near the Belgian Coast Gen. Haig's Men Have Made Successful Raid Into German Positions.

New York, August 8.—(By Associated Press. From European Cables of the Day.)—Flanders, where the big guns have been booming incessantly since rain stopped the entente offensive movement early last week, has again been the scene of infantry fighting, but only on a small scale.

Near the coast the British have been successful in a raid into the German lines near Lombaertzyde. Berlin officially describes this operation as an attack in force, which, it says, the Germans beat off in hand-to-hand fighting. The Teutons also record the repulse of local attacks by the British in the Bixschoote region, between Dixmude and Ypres.

Along the Aisne front and on the right bank of the Meuse, northeast of Verdun, violent artillery activity continues on both sides.

The German crown prince has not followed up his attacks on the Aisne front, where he was repulsed east of Vauxillon and west of the Californie plateau.

RUSSIANS STRIKE AT AUSTRO-GERMANS.

Russian troops are on the offensive in the Chotin region on the Russo-Galician border, northeast of Czernowitz, and have withstood successfully Austro-German thrusts in the region of Brody, in Galicia northeast of Lemberg. The Russian forward movement west of Chotin resulted in the capture of two villages and a height. The Austro-Germans lost three hundred prisoners and four machine guns. The Teutonic effort near Brody penetrated the Russian lines, but the attackers were thrown back by a counter attack and the Russian lines restored.

A newspaper report from Petrograd says that the Russians have evacuated the fortress of Kamenetz-Podolsk, the capital of Podolia, about thirty miles northeast of Chotin, and the garrison town of Proskurov, on the Bug river, 53 miles north of Kamenetz-Podolsk. Both these places are some distance from the line of the River Zbrocz, which has been held in part by the Russians for more than a week, and lie behind the Chotin-Brody line.

In central Moldavia the Teutons continue their advance north of Fokshani. Petrograd admits the success of this movement and says the Russians have retired toward the River Sereth.

the army of that dread disease of the cause of dependents which is expected to decrease considerably the loss of men from the military service for this reason. Boards are authorized hereafter to deny exemption to married men whose wives are solely dependent upon them but where the parents or other relatives of either wife or husband are willing to assume the burden of her support during his absence. The same course is to be followed where any drafted man's employers agree to continue his salary as a patriotic duty.

A third supplemental ruling provides that where a man has supported his dependents by his own labor on land which he owns and the boards find that the land could be rented to advantage so as to continue the support for the wife derived from the rental, exemption for the man may be denied.

The telegram to the governors follows:

"Under presidential regulation the term 'dependent for support" has given rise to several further questions of principle affecting large numbers of persons.

"The general basis for ruling upon such questions should be the spirit and purpose of the act in providing for such discharge, wherever the terms of the act and of the regulations are not in themselves conclusive. The act authorizes the president to discharge wherever the parties drafted are 'in a status with respect to persons dependent upon them for support which renders their exclusion or discharge advisable.'

"Such dependency ordinarily renders discharge advisable because since the drafted person loses his civil income and thus loses his means of support, the wife is left without support, and this lack of support is the effect which the act aims to avoid. But wherever such effect does not in fact follow, and the wife is not left without reasonably adequate support, but will receive such support from other sources, there is no real dependency rendering discharge advisable.

Classes in the Ruling.

"The following classes of cases are within this ruling:

"A—Wife and children.

"1—Where the parents or other relatives of the wife or the husband are able, ready and willing to provide adequate support for her (and children, if any,) during the absence of the husband.

"2—Where the wife owns land which has produced income by the husband's labor, but which could, with reasonable certainty, be rented, during his absence, to other persons so as to produce an adequate support.

"3—Where there exists some arrangement by which the salary or wage of the husband is continued, in whole or in part, by third person, being employers or insurers of others, and such portion of the salary or wage, either alone or with an allotment of his soldiers' pay, or with other definite income will furnish a reasonably adequate support.

"B—Other Dependents:

"1—Where in one of the foregoing ways a reasonably adequate support is provided for a widowed mother, infirm parents, or orphan child under 16 years, of a son, brother or father called into service.

"Under presidential regulations providing that 'any certificate or discharge may be withdrawn, modified, or renewed by the local board,' the board is authorized to reopen any claim of exemption already passed upon and still awaiting disposition on appeal to the district board, for the purpose of receiving any affidavits or making other inquiries relative to dependency as defined in the present rulings, and the local board shall transmit to the district board such affidavits and its own minutes thereon, for consideration on appeal.

"The foregoing rulings are calculated to carry out the spirit and terms of the act, and to enable patriotic men to remain in the military service of their country, wherever the burden of support hitherto carried by them alone is in a position to be distributed for a time among others who are patriotically ready to make in this manner their contribution to military service by setting another man free to enter the army."

The Mobilization Regulations.

The mobilization regulations referred to by General Crowder were in the hands of the printer tonight. They cover many pages and provide for every contingency that can be foreseen in the assembling of the men for the new army. The contingents of the various districts making up any call to the colors are to be assembled by the state authorities, provided with transportation to their training camp, furnished with means of subsistence on the way and also provided with a blank telegraphic form with which to report the time of their arrival to the camp commander from a point six hours from destination. They will be regarded as passing into the authority of the army when they board the trains.

Provision is made also for filling vacancies which may occur in any district quota should men sent forward be rejected by the army doctors in final examination at the camps. In such cases, the district boards will be notified and another man be furnished. The net quota of any district will not be regarded as filled until the camp authorities report back to the board that the full number of men called for have arrived and been finally accepted.

Condition of Taft.

Clay Center, Kan., August 8.—The condition of former President William H. Taft, who became suddenly ill here Monday night, was improved today, according to physicians, who decided, however, that it would be advisable for him to remain in his room again today. He probably will leave for Lincoln, Neb., tomorrow. Mr. Taft became ill after delivering an address here.

TEXAS GOVERNOR TRIED TO CONTROL UNIVERSITY

President Says Ferguson Wanted Members of Faculty Dismissed.

Austin, Texas, August 8.—Dr. R. E. Vinson, president of the University of Texas, testifying today before the state house of representatives, which is investigating charges against Governor James E. Ferguson, denied "suggestions" which counsel for the house said had been made that "dead men" were on the pay rolls and asserted that the only charges against certain members of the faculty whose dismissal the governor is alleged to have urged was that they had opposed the state administration.

One of the charges preferred against the governor, whose impeachment is sought, was that he had exceeded his rights in alleged attempts to control the university.

Dr. Vinson testified that last June, when bills making appropriations for the university were awaiting the governor's signature, he was told by Wilbur P. Allen, chairman of the board of regents of the university, that he thought the appropriations could be saved if he would resign as president. Dr. Vinson said he refused to resign.

The charges now under investigation were presented after Governor Ferguson recently vetoed bills providing appropriations for the university for next year.

Prior to this, Dr. Vinson testified, he was told by Governor Ferguson that certain members of the faculty "must go." Later when he asked for information on which to base charges against the instructors, the witness declared, the governor accused him of attempting to raise an issue and told him henceforth their relations would be through the board of regents only.

Dr. Vinson, on cross-examination by the attorney for Governor Ferguson, who questioned him closely relative to the cost of maintenance of the university, maintained that the increase in attendance had been greater in proportion than that of the cost of maintenance.

Alleged financial transactions of the governor, which had been under investigation for two days previously, were inquired into only briefly today, but, it is understood, will be resumed later. Dr. Vinson will conclude his testimony tomorrow.

Obeying Their Religion, They Failed to Register And Must Serve in Prison

Phoenix, Ariz., August 8.—Thirty-five Molokanas, members of a Russian religious sect, colonized at Glendale, were sentenced to one year in prison by Judge Sawtelle late this afternoon for failure to obey the president's proclamation requiring aliens to register under the selective draft.

The only defense offered was their religious scruples against war, which prevented them from countenancing it even to the extent of registering for the draft.

They were taken tonight in a barred car to Prescott to serve their sentences in the county jail there. As the train left the station, the prisoners and their co-religionists on the platform joined in singing the weird songs of their religion.

Before the departure of the prisoners, the police arrested 38 other members of the colony for creating a disturbance outside the city jail, where some of the prisoners were confined. Women and men attacked the officers who attempted to subdue the disturbance, several women beating policemen over the head until overpowered.

Sentencing the men in United States district court created a wild scene, women and men shouting their protests. Some of the court attendants were slightly scratched while subduing the disorders. The prisoners were removed to the jail and given cold baths to quiet them.

BRIDE IS WILLING, AND KINGDON GOULD MAY GO INTO ARMY

New York, August 8.—Kingdon Gould, of Lakewood, N. J., eldest son of George J. Gould, who claimed exemption when called before the draft board at Tom's River, N. J., yesterday on the ground that he had dependents, explained tonight that he probably would not stand on the claim. His wife, a bride of only a month, was willing for him to serve, he said.

Mr. Gould explained that his action before the exemption board was prompted by the fact that after he had passed the physical examination it was necessary for him to declare his intention of claiming exemption at once and as he had not consulted his wife, he adopted that course.

"The only doubt in my mind was whether my wife could skimp through on my allowance," he said.

IN COLQUITT CO. TO DISCUSS DRAFT LAW TWO MEETINGS HELD

Moultrie, Ga., August 8.—(Special.)—Two meetings advertised as being called "for the purpose of discussing the draft law" have been held in Colquitt county this week, according to news received in Moultrie. One of the meetings occurred at New Elm today and the other was staged at Sardis church yesterday. Both were well attended, it is stated. The speakers said that in their opinion the conscription law was unconstitutional and should be repealed before any of "our boys are carried against their wills to spill their blood in Europe." It is stated very few of those at either meeting were within the draft age.

AMERICAN TROOPS FOR RUSSIAN FRONT

Senator Ham Lewis Says Next Contingents From the United States Will Be Sent to Aid Russ Armies.

Washington, August 8.—Predictions that the next American troops to go abroad will be sent to strengthen the Russian lines was made in the senate today by Senator Lewis, of Illinois.

"The next legions of our men to go forth," said he, "will be to Russia to support the loyal Russian armies now fighting under the principles of our making. To these shattered but struggling people we must go with food and supplies and also with our men."

SMITH-LEVER FUND COMPROMISE PLAN BEATEN IN HOUSE

$20,000 of This Fund Voted to Georgia Normal for Co-operative Extension Work in Home Economics.

LEGALITY OF THIS STEP QUESTIONED BY SWIFT

Joe Hill Hall Starts Fight to Cut Maintenance Appropriation of University From $65,000 to $50,000.

Plans for a compromise and friendly adjustment of the controversy between the trustees of the University of Georgia and the directors of the Georgia Normal and Industrial college at Milledgeville went unexpectedly awry in the house of representatives yesterday afternoon, when an amendment, offered by the spokesman in the house of the Milledgeville institution, appropriating $10,000 from the state treasury was turned down by a large majority in favor of a substitute by Mr. Wright, of Floyd, directing that the trustees turn over $20,000 of the Smith-Lever fund to the girls' school to be used in co-operative extension work in home economics.

Mr. Wright's substitute for the Burwell-Ennis amendment originally provided for the diversion to the Milledgeville school of only $10,000, but was amended by Mr. Williams, of Meriwether, so as to make it $20,000.

Burch Launches Fight.

The house in committee of the whole was debating the maintenance appropriation for the university proper when Mr. Burch, of Laurens, asked and obtained permission, in view of the fact that he would be called away by an important engagement, that the house take up an amendment to the appropriation bill for the Milledgeville school, passing over for the time the intervening appropriations for the university and its branches.

Mr. Burwell immediately sent to the desk the amendment drawn by himself, to which the names of a number of the friends of the Milledgeville school had been attached, including that of the Baldwin representative, Mr. Ennis, appropriating directly from the state treasury $10,000 to the school to be used by the trustees for extension work in home economics.

This amendment expressed the result of a compromise, arrived at in a conference held in the morning between representatives in the house of both parties to the controversy. It was expected that it would be passed without difficulty and leave the way open for action on the maintenance appropriations for the various branches of the university system without further delay.

This hope might have been realized but for the fact that Mr. Hall, of Bibb, who had consistently opposed nearly all the items reported by his committee, objected on the ground that there would not be money in the treasury to meet this additional appropriation.

Wright Offers Substitute.

Mr. Wright, of Floyd, then offered his substitute. Mr. Swift, of Muscogee, said that under the federal law the funds appropriated by the Smith-Lever act were limited to institutions participating in the distribution of the land script fund, made by act of congress in 1862 for agricultural education.

In spite of the willingness as expressed by Mr. Burwell, Mr. Ennis and other friends of the Milledgeville institution to accept an appropriation of $10,000 from the treasury as the best way out of the legal controversy which had arisen over the distribution of the Smith-Lever fund, giving them something certain, even though less than they wanted, in lieu of a scrap for something they might not be entitled to under the law, the house chose rather the Wright substitute after increasing its amount to $20,000.

It is pointed out by opponents of this change in the fund that this leaves the controversy about where it started, as, regardless of the terms of the Smith-Lever act, the university trustees were instructed by the Georgia act of 1914, accepting the proceeds of the fund for the state, to use the money for extension work of the state college of agriculture.

Hall Asks for Cut.

The house had no sooner taken up the maintenance appropriation for the University of Georgia on its resumption in committee of the whole at the afternoon session for its consideration of the general appropriation bill, item by item, than Mr. Hall, of Bibb, moved to cut the appropriation from $65,000 to $50,000, and served notice on the house that, even if this figure were adopted, he would later move to strike the item from the bill altogether.

Mr. Hall's attack on the appropriation named in the bill brought to the defense of the university a number of eloquent supporters, particularly among the younger members of the house, who called attention to the great part played by the institution in Georgia's history and the splendid loyalty displayed by its officers and students in the present war.

Mr. Atkinson, of Fulton, pertinently asked the Bibb representative if he thought it quite fair for him to take advantage of his position as chairman of the committee to attack nearly all of the items in the bill reported by it? Mr. Hall angrily replied that he was within his rights as a member of the house in fighting the bill, and, if the house wanted him to do so, he would willingly withdraw from the chairmanship of the committee.

Mr. Swift, of Muscogee, regretted the fact that year after year the baiting of the university seemed to be one of the most popular diversions of many of the members of the house. He explained that the $5,000 increase in the appropriation asked for was certainly moderate and fair in view of the fact that the university had given way to an appropriation for the Girls' school at Milledgeville in order to enable it to build a dormitory.

No Dormitory There.

Replying to the criticism aimed at the trustees for not opening the doors of the university to women, Mr. DuBose, of Clarke, said that there was no dormitory for the girls and that the trustees would willingly open the doors to women, if the legislature would make an appropriation enabling them to take care of them.

Eloquent tributes to the university were made by Mr. Pace, of Sumter, one of the recent graduates of the institution, and Mr. Wood, of Cherokee, who said that while he had never been a student there, he could not hesitate to come to the support of a historic institution, the oldest state university in the land, which had accomplished so much for Georgia.

The effort made by the rules committee through its vice chairman, Mr. Jones, of Coweta, to hold a night session in order to expedite the work of the house failed, and the house adjourned to meet Thursday morning at 9 o'clock.

Morning Session.

When the house met Wednesday morning Representative Trammell, of Harris county, sought to bring the tax fight back into the house, when he moved to reconsider the action of the house of Tuesday in passing the general tax bill. Mr. Trammell objected to the bill, since section 14 has been eliminated, and contends that it carries no provision for reaching invisible property, which he declared is one of the things for which the repeal advocates against the tax equalization law are fighting for.

The motion to reconsider was overwhelmingly lost.

In passing on the state salaries set out in the general appropriations bill, the amount in each being fixed by law, the first fight in the committee of the whole house developed, and in the several items following on which contests were made Mr. Hall, chairman of the committee, fought the figures in the bill. No provision had been made for a messenger for the governor, which has been in previous bills, and Messrs. Neill, Wright, Akin and McCrory offered an amendment providing $950 a year for the messenger.

This Mr. Hall declared to be in direct violation of the law, holding that the constitution of the state limits the expense of the governor's office force to $6,000, as fixed by the bill. Mr. McCrory declared nobody had ever questioned the inclusion of the messenger "until the gentleman from Bibb came back here this time."

The vote on the amendment was 55 to 55, and the chairman of the committee of the whole house, Mr. Beazley, the speaker pro tem., cast the deciding vote in favor of the messenger. Mr. Hall declaring he was surprised that the governor should have sent any such request to the house, when it was clearly a violation of the law to pay the money.

Representative Anderson, of Jenkins, proposed an amendment to strike all that part of the appropriations bill providing a salary for the state tax commissioner, saying that by so doing it would have the effect of abolishing the office, and that was what he desired, this being another effort to renew the fight on the tax equalization law. The amendment was ruled out of order.

All the salary list passed as it was written in the bill, on the ground that it is a series of fixed charges carried in the laws of the state.

Fights Blind Academy Raise.

Chairman Hall, as had been intimated by him in the committee meeting he would do, fought the bill of his own committee on the appropriation for the academy for the blind, in Macon, making the remark that he would fix it so nobody in the house could charge him with being inconsistent, by starting to cut on his own home institution first. The committee reported an appropriation of $36,000 for that institution, and Mr. Hall tried to amend by cutting the fund to $30,000, taking away the $6,000 that had been added to the old appropriation. He said his daughter is a teacher in the institution, but he believed it should get no more than it got last year.

Mr. Wright, of Floyd; Mr. McDonald, of Richmond, the blind member of the house, chairman of the committee on the blind institution, and a former student of it; Mr. Bankston, of Troup, and Mr. Barfield, of Bibb, defended the institution an saved the cut which Mr. Hall sought to inflict. They showed that cost of maintaining the institution is higher than it has been in past years, that it has gone without repairs, and it can't get along on the old appropriation. In answer to the latter declaration Mr. Hall contended that it would be best to let it cut one month from its school term and live on the $30,000. The amendment to reduce was overwhelmingly lost and the appropriation of $36,000 was voted.

The appropriation reported for the school for the deaf is $60,000. Mr. Hall sought to cut that to $50,000 and lost. Dr. Carter sought to cut to $58,000 and eliminate the field agent. It was shown that W. O. Connor, whom this was aimed at, has been with the institution 60 years, and is scientifically a very valuable man in teaching the new methods of talking. The Carter cut was lost and the committee report adopted at $60,000.

State Sanitarium.

Mr. Hall supported the committee report for $761,000 for the state sanitarium and a deficiency appropriation of $85,000 for the same institution, saying that this is nearly $100,000 increase, besides the deficiency fund. He said the state can take no risk in caring for the people in the asylum, and the trustees have shown they need what is asked for. Representative Ennis, of Baldwin, said he felt that argument for the institution would be unnecessary, inasmuch as the institution is taking care of the unfortunate people of every county in the state.

For the Soldiers' Home the appropriation of $45,000 was supported by Mr. Hall and went through.

The committee reported $30,000 for the Alto sanitarium for consumptives. Mr. Kimsey, of Habersham, offered an amendment to make it $36,000, and Messrs. Vincent and Fowler, of Forsyth, one to make it $40,000. Mr. Hall fought both of these, saying the committee thought they had amply taken care of the institution, which is caring for only 36 patients. Speeches in support were made by Wood, of Cherokee; Dr. Beall, of Richmond, who showed that the county of Fulton pays $75,000 a year for a county institution of the same kind at Battle Hill, and others. The Kimsey amendment of $36,000 carried by a vote of 82 to 53.

At this point the house adjourned until 3 o'clock.

OLD AGE A CRIME!

Some people are young at 60—red cheeked, ruddy and vigorous. Others are old at 40—joints beginning to stiffen up a bit; step beginning to lag and lose its springiness; occasional touches of pain in the back, feel tired without cause, and possibly a twinge of rheumatic pain.

In most cases these are the danger signals to warn you that the kidneys are not promptly doing their work of throwing off the poisons that are always forming in the body. To neglect these natural warnings is a crime against yourself. If you have these symptoms you can find prompt relief in GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. For more than 200 years this has been the recognized remedy for kidney and bladder ailments.

Tighten Up on Claims.

Local boards Wednesday began to scrutinize more closely the various claims for exemption filed with them. Several claims were rejected Wednesday.

The board for Division No. 7 rejected the claim of Jefferson Davis Hunt, Jr., insurance examiner of 40 East Fourteenth street. Hunt claimed exemption on grounds that he was married. He was married June 30 of this year. Judging from the decision of the board in this particular case it appears that men who have married since war was declared, or who have recently married, will not be exempted on the ground that their wives are dependent on them.

The same board rejected the claim to exemption of Frank Carr Eastman, Jr., of 885 West Peachtree street. Eastman submitted affidavits that his wife and child were dependent on him for support except for a separate income last year of $600 in his wife's name.

A. L. Foard, 736 DeKalb avenue, claimed exemption on grounds that he was the sole support of his widowed mother, Mrs. R. O. Foard, except for $250 a year received by Mrs. Foard from the Inman Park Methodist church, which the claimant said is used to pay in part for the clothing and school expenses of his younger brother and sister.

Hull's Claim Rejected.

Henry Guy Hull, of 23 Mayson avenue, had his claim rejected, though he stated he was the sole support of his mother.

Douglas' B. Wright, of 1075 Peachtree street, had his claim rejected, although he is a member of the Officers' Reserve camp at Fort McPherson.

The board for Division No. 3 has refused exemption to several who had previously joined the Emory hospital unit that is to go to France from Atlanta.

Division No. 1, which has completed its physical examinations, issued a statement Wednesday declaring that it did not expect to secure more than 60 men out of the first call of 310 men. The quota for this division is 155 men.

KEEP THE ANIMALS FROM RAIL TRACKS TO CONSERVE MEAT

Washington, August 9.—"Millions of pounds of beef and pork will be required to feed our armies and navies and those of our allies, and if we are not to have meatless days enforced in the United States we should conserve our supplies in every practicable way," said President Harrison, of the Southern Railway system, today.

"One of the ways in which a very substantial saving of our meat resources may be made is through reducing the number of animals killed on railroad tracks. On the railroads of the United States many thousands of cattle and hogs are killed every year, and, as those killed in this way are not used for food, this loss results in a correspondingly large decrease in our available meat supply.

"The responsibility for this loss rests primarily on the owner of the animals who allow them to stray on the railroad right-of-way. When they are killed the law places the responsibility on the railroad and the owner suffers no direct pecuniary loss. There is, however, in addition to the serious reduction of the meat supply of the country, a further economic loss through the payment by the railroad of money which is urgently needed at this time for increasing the transportation facilities of the country, the lack of which for the movement of his products to market may cause a loss to the farmer greater than the amount he received for the animals killed on the railroad. The extent of this loss may be indicated by the fact that the Southern Railway system alone paid out in the twelve months ending June 30, 1917, more than $200,000 for animals killed on the right-of-way. This sum, even at the present high prices of equipment, would be sufficient to buy more than 100 standard box cars capable of handling at a single load more than 3,000 tons of freight, and the constant use of this many additional cars would tend to the relief of the present wartime congestion of traffic.

"Is it not the partriotic duty of every farmer to keep his live stock away from the railroad tracks?"

FOOD CONTROL PASSED: HOVER CONTROLLER

and stimulation of production, also was contested sharply in the senate. It was passed May 28 by the house, and on June 2 by the senate. It then was held in conference to await the senate's action on the control measure.

DROP PREDICTED IN PRICE OF COAL.

Washington, August 8.—Sharp reduction in coal prices was predicted by officials tonight as a result of the senate's passage today of the food control bill carrying a provision for government fixing of fuel prices.

The federal trade commission, which the measure authorizes the president to designate as an agency to enforce the provision, is ready to make out a price scale at short notice. For months the commission has gathered facts as to production costs, and in a recent report to congress pointed out that prices are too high.

Bituminous prices to the general public were fixed at $3 in a recent agreement between producers, members of the commission and other government officials. This price was to hold until a final price was determined on. Investigation has convinced members of the commission that the price is too high and that coal can be sold at a much lower figure and still leave a handsome profit for the producer.

President Wilson probably will issue an executive order at the time he signs the bill, authorizing the commission to proceed with price-fixing.

SOUTHERN METHODISTS WILL ASSIST HOOVER.

Washington, August 8.—The Methodist Episcopal church, south, today designated General Julian S. Carr, of Durham, N. C., to represent it as an aide to Herbert Hoover and to have charge of the denomination's part in the church campaign for food conservation.

General Carr, who is commander of the Army of Northern Virginia, of the United Confederate Veterans, was selected at a conference here today of representatives of Southern Methodists, who also formally recorded their confidence in the food administration and appointed a commission on food conservation to co-operate with the food administration.

The conference laid stress on the advantages of the plan for having weekly reports from church members on food savings accomplished, and termed use of foodstuffs in the manufacture of alcohol "an unpatriotic and indefensible waste."

The committee which was appointed to co-operate with the national food administration includes Bishop W. R. Lambuth, of Oakdale, Cal., and Bishop W. B. Murrah, of Memphis, joint chairmen, and Rev. James Cannon, Jr., of Richmond, secretary. The other members of the commission are:

PRICE EXTORTION WILL BE STOPPED

are in complete accord, that in the purchase of war materials in this country our allies shall be charged with no more than our own government has to pay. Guns and ammunition employed against our enemies are for our benefit as much when used by our allies as when used by our men, and it is obviously unjust to require our allies when fighting our battle to pay our own people more than our own government pays for the materials necessary to carry on the war.

"A mere statement of the proposition seems enough; and we are confident that our manufacturers, who have so patriotically responded thus far to the calls of our government in this emergency, will readily accept this policy.

"But this policy has two important limitations. First, it is to be reciprocal. The allies must henceforth apply the same principle in dealing with their own producers and in selling to us and in selling to each other. Second, the arrangement must be limited to war materials, in order to protect our own industry. We must not allow raw materials sold by our producers at prices patriotically conceded to our government and to its allies for war purposes to be diverted to industry and trade abroad which may come in competition with our own manufacturers and producers. Measures will be taken by the board for the best possible assurance that materials sold at a concession in prices for war purposes shall be applied only to war purposes.

Extortion to Be Stopped.

"In fixing the prices to be paid by the governments, we shall allow a reasonable profit, but shall deny the extortion now exacted for many commodities of prime necessity. We shall pay the just price so admirably defined by the president in his public statement of July 12, as follows:

"'By a just price I mean a price which will sustain the industries concerned in a high state of efficiency, provide living for those who conduct them, enable them to pay good wages and make possible expansions of their enterprises, which will from time to time become necessary as the stupendous undertakings of this great war develop.'

"The war industries board has not yet had and may not have occasion to deal with the question of prices to be charged the public, but it seems proper in this connection to direct attention again to the following from the statement of the president on that subject:

"'We must make the prices to the public the same as the prices to the government. Prices mean the same thing everywhere now; they mean the efficiency of the nation, whether it is the government that pays them or not. They mean victory or defeat.'

"The war makes enormous drafts upon many raw materials absolutely necessary to the industrial life of the nation and to the ordinary existence of the people. This has resulted in the bidding up of prices for what is left of many materials of prime necessity in manufacture to a point obviously out of all relation to the cost of production and involving unconscionable profits on our national resources and the consequence is that the cost to the public of all the articles in the manufacture of which such materials enter, has reached a level never before known."

NEGRO ATTEMPTS TO BRIBE BOARD MEMBER

Augusta Boards Lack 91 of Quota on First Men Called for Examination.

Augusta, Ga., August 8.—Wright Brown, colored, was brought to Augusta from Burke county yesterday and lodged in the Richardson county jail on a charge of attempting to bribe two members of the Burke county exemption board.

Brown, it is alleged, first offered money to one member of the board to examine him at once, without requiring him to wait until his name should be reached on the liability list. It is charged that he later attempted to bribe another member of the board to have him rejected on the physical examination.

These brazen attempts to bribe government officers were reported to Sheriff Sam G. Storey, who promptly arrested the negro and notified the federal court authorities here to send for him.

The two Augusta exemption boards have finished the work of examining men summoned on the first call for the national army.

The two boards together have examined 201 men, of whom 140 were accepted as physically qualified. However, 91 of those accepted have filed exemption claims, leaving only 49 who qualified and did not ask for exemption. The city's quota is 124, and it is very probable that another call will have to be made before that number can be provided. This, however, cannot be determined until after the boards act on claims for exemption, and also figure up how many of their first call men have enlisted since the drawing occurred, as well as the number they have at training camps, for which they will get credit.

WEBSTER-FLEMING.

Gainesville, Ga., August 8.—(Special.) The announcement today of the marriage on Friday, July 13, at the home of Rev. T. B. Chandler, of Mr. Elbert Fleming and Miss Ila Webster, of this city, both prominent young people, came as a surprise to many friends in the city and county. There was no parental objection to this happy union, only "they just thought it would be a lark" to keep it a sescet for a little while. The bride is at present out of the city waiting upon her mother, who is very ill, and upon her recovery will return to the city, and the young people will be at home to their many friends on West Washington street.

F. Quigg, the principal of the Rome high school. Rev. Mr. Branson, of Villa Rica, performed the ceremony in the presence of many friends. After a trip to the mountain resorts in north Georgia, Mr. and Mrs. Quigg will return about August 15 and reside with Mrs. McHenry, on Second avenue.

McLeod was impressively solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Middleton, this morning at 8 o'clock with a few close friends and relatives present. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. McLeod left on the 8:30 Southern train for a honeymoon trip to Asheville and other points in North Carolina and Tennessee. Later they will return to Rome to reside and will make their home with Miss Camilla Fouche.

MORE RAIN TODAY, SAYS FORECASTER

Weather Man Believes That August Will Be as Damp a Month as July Was an Arid One.

July having been a month of record-breaking aridness, official weather prophets believe August will be an unusually damp one and find in six days of rainfall substantial corroboration of their forecast.

Wednesday was the wettest day of the month. Almost a half inch fall was recorded in fifteen minutes shortly before noon. The fall for the afternoon was also a half inch, a heavy downpour occurring shortly before 3 o'clock.

This year July was the arid month. Last year July showed a precipitation of 10 inches, which was particularly heavy. August, however, was very dry, the rainfall reaching only 1.98 inches. The average for August is 4.36 inches, of which 2.50 inches has already fallen in the first eight days of this month, with no prospect of an immediate cessation of the rain.

Forecaster von Herrmann stated Wednesday afternoon that rain would fall this afternoon, but that the outlook was for sunny weather the remainder of the day, with perhaps a star-studded night. The day will be cloudy, he predicts. It was also predicted that the intermittent downpours would continue for at least three days to come. The remainder of August will be wet, but not extraordinarily so, it is predicted.

There has been no damage to crops by the present precipitation, it was announced at the weather bureau. All agricultural interests in Georgia are in splendid condition. An abnormally heavy rainfall without cessation, however, would cause damage, it is said.

Rain is falling at this time in all of Georgia and Alabama, the area of precipitation extending northward to the lake region and westward to Arkansas, Oklahoma and the northwest. A distinct disturbance of barometric pressure, to which much of the fall can be traced, ranges over the central upper lakes with the atmospheric pressure down as low as 29.80 in Sault Ste. Marie.

Temperatures will continue moderate.

Bids Open Until Aug. 17 On Embalming Contract At the Big Cantonment

The government has announced that bids will be received until August 17 for the contract of embalming and shipping officers and enlisted men who die at Camp Gordon, the army cantonment which will soon open at Chamblee.

The bidders must state definitely what material the coffins will be made of, and give a description of the caskets to be used. A death certificate must accompany each body shipped. The bodies of the men will be sent to their families, if it is so desired. The undertakers securing the contract must prepare the bodies in every way for interment.

Bids are to be sent to Clement L. Speiden, Depot Quartermaster, Camp Gordon, Ga.

COMMITTEE WORKING FOR GRAIN ELEVATOR

One of the most important matters now being considered by the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce is the advisability of obtaining a grain elevator for Atlanta. A meeting of a special committee which has this matter in charge was held Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock at the chamber. This committee is composed of W. J. Lowenstein, chairman; H. G. Hastings, Chauncey Smith, J. L. Duncan, L. C. Jennings, J. W. Bachman, Henry Heinz, E. D. Duncan and E. S. Center.

Another meeting of importance will be that of next Friday morning at 11 o'clock of the committee on labor survey for shipbuilding. This body was organized at the instance of B. F. McLeod, of Charleston, of the national committee. It is composed of W. B. Willingham, chairman; T. T. Flagler, A. R. Wright and George D. Halsey. At its Thursday conference a report will be formulated and referred to the committee on public safety.

High Percentage Of Men Called in Colquitt Are Married

Moultrie, August 8—The first day's work by the local exemption board indicated that it would probably be necessary to examine about 700 men to get 181, Colquitt county's quota of the draft army. Exemption claims are running high, but a surprisingly large number qualified physically during the first day's examinations.

Most of those summoned to appear before the board today were from the country, however, and in the rural sections the number of married men is much larger proportionately than in the towns of the county, according to those who have looked over the registration cards.

LOW PERCENTAGE WAIVE EXEMPTION IN AMERICUS

Americus, Ga., August 8.—(Special.) Out of 311 men examined physically by the Sumter exemption board during the past two days, only 28 have failed to file notice of intention to claim exemption. One hundred and sixty men were examined today and 37 rejected, while 10 did not appear for examination.

Tomorrow is the last day for physical examination, and the local board plans to begin passing on the exemption claims by the first of next week. Five hundred men were summoned on the first call, Sumter county's quota being 187.

THOMASVILLE MAY GET AVIATION CAMP SITE

Government Agents Say Climatic Conditions There Are Ideal.

Thomasville, Ga., August 8.—(Special.)—The government is looking very favorably upon Thomasville as a site for an aviation training camp and the requirements for one have been filed with the commercial association here by the signal corps of the war department at Washington.

That Thomasville has the most desirable climatic conditions for the purpose of any place found, with the exception of San Diego, Cal., is the report of the authorities at Washington, who have been making a careful examination into the matter with a view to establishing an aviation camp here and if other requirements can be met it will not be long before the birdmen will be practicing in south Georgia. One of the requirements is a tract of land 640 acres in extent and at least a mile wide. This, it is understood, can be obtained near here and a committee is at work on the matter and data has been forwarded to the signal corps.

COOKS BADLY NEEDED FOR THE CANTONMENTS

The national committee to secure cooks for the cantonment camps located at various places in the country has asked the hotel men to furnish as many cooks as they can spare. The co-operation of the hotel men is necessary, as the committee only wants the men for six or seven weeks and cannot get men to leave their positions for that time.

The plan is for all hotel men to lend at least one cook for the period of seven weeks to the camp. They are asked to write the local committee which is composed of the following experienced hotel men who will pass on the applications: J. Lee Barnes, district chairman, of the Majestic hotel; Will V. Zimmer, of Kimballville farm, assistant chairman, and E. L. Thornton, superintendent of the East Lake Country club, assistant chairman, giving the names of the cooks they are willing to let the camp have. The committee will forward transportation at once, as they are to report not later than August 20. The local headquarters are at the Majestic hotel, open from 10 until 4 o'clock.

Salary of Class A cook is $125 per month and Class B cook is $90 per month, both to include board and lodging.

WANTED, A BILLION BUSHELS OF WHEAT

Government Begins Campaign for Record-Breaking Crop Next Year—Georgia Asked for Great Increase in Yield.

Washington, August 8.—The production of over one billion bushels of wheat and over eighty-three million bushels of rye through the planting of 47,337,000 acres to winter wheat and of 5,131,000 acres to rye this fall, is the immediate war agricultural program for the nation announced today by David F. Houston, secretary of agriculture. This record winter wheat acreage, an increase of 18 per cent over last year, would yield 672,000,000 bushels if the average yield for the past ten years is equaled, or under a repetition of the favorable conditions of 1914 would give 880,000,000 bushels. In either case with a spring wheat crop next year equal to that of 1915 the nation will have more than one million bushels of wheat for domestic use and export.

This vastly increased production of wheat, needed in any case, will be absolutely essential to prevent a serious shortage of breadstuffs next summer should the gorwing corn, now behind the season, be much damaged by early frosts.

Big Increase Asked of Georgia.

The largest percentage increases are requested in some of the southern states. Mississippi leads with 455 per cent increase and Georgia comes next with 100 per cent increase. Alabama is asked for 50 per cent increase, Arkansas for 37 per cent and South Carolina for 37 per cent. These southern states are anxious to increase their acreage by this amount to safeguard their own food supply. The increase in actual acres, however, is comparatively small in each of these cases

The program approved by the secretary of agriculture represents the best thought of the United States department of agriculture and of state agricultural officials and state councils of defense.

The study of this question has involved many factors and the specialists have been aware from the first that the demands for wheat may exceed the supply next year. Effort, therefore, has been made to recommend in each state about as large an acreage in wheat and rye as can be sown without upsetting proper farm practice which must be maintained in the interest of wheat and rye crops this and succeeding years, as well as in the interest of other necessary spring-planted crops which are not discussed in detail at this time, as they are not food crops in which a marked shortage exists.

Some Shortage of Fertilizer.

The estimates, the department states, are made with the knowledge that there is some shortage of the fertilizer supply, but with the understanding that there will be no general shortage in the supply of seed or of farm machinery which is necessary in the production of the wheat crop. It is understood also that ample transportation facilities will be provided and a fair price of wheat will be established. These factors have been assumed as fixed and satisfactory. If any one or more fail to be adjusted in good time no person can tell how serious will be the effect on the total crop.

The planting and cultivation of these increased acreages of fall-sown grains calls for unusual effort on the part of the farmers. Plans to place at the disposal of farmers all assistance possible are being perfected in the United States department of agriculture, the state colleges of agriculture and other state and local agencies which co-operate in farming matters. The assistance of successful growers of wheat and rye in a campaign to turn out bumper crops in 1918 is assured.

The state officials will do their utmost to get the acreages expected of their states into the ground. The program as originally worked out by the federal department of agriculture called for somewhat more than 44,000,000 acres to be sown this fall. When this proposal was presented to the officials of the several states a further increase was considered possible and desirable by them. As a consequence the recommendation for the sowing of 47,337,000 acres is made.

How to Increase Yield.

Specialists of the department of agriculture and the state agricultural colleges hope that by better methods the average yield per acre will be at least maintained wherever there is a fertilizer shortage and will be increased in other sections. It is stated that on the land that could be sown to fall wheat this autumn it is possible materially to increase the yield per acre by putting into practice some principles that are already well known to most farmers. These should appeal especially to those who cannot increase their usual acreages without doing injustice to other crops which should be grown.

These principles may be summed up as follows:

1. Plow early. Give the plowed land two months to settle before sowing where possible.
2. Compact the late plowed land with roller and harrow.
3. Don't plow after a cultivated crop. Prepare such land with disk and harrow.
4. Make the seed bed a fit place for the seed.
5. Sow with a drill, sound, plump, clean seed of adapted variety.
6. Prevent losses from smut by treating infected seed with formaldehyde.
7. Make the soil fertile with manure or fertilizers applied judiciously where needed.
8. Reduce winter killing by following the above suggestions.

WILL GUARD HEALTH OF THE DRAFT ARMY

Dr. Randolph Grimm, Federal Expert, Outlines the Work to Be Done in Six-Mile Zone Around Camp Gordon.

Concrete plans for an immediate start upon the work of placing the zone around the cantonement upon a model plane of sanitation are being worked out by Dr. Randolph M. Grimm, of the United States public health service, who has been sent from Washington by the government to take charge of this work.

Dr. Grimm has been in Atlanta several days and has been vigorously at work going into the situation. He will be assisted in the undertaking by H. H. Wagenhals, sanitary engineer with the public health service.

The task which Dr. Grimm has undertaken is comprehensive in its scope and will involve an enormous amount of work. It is the plan of the government to co-operate with the county and city health authorities, the counties of Fulton and DeKalb having already agreed to bear their pro rata of the expense incurred.

Grimm to Head Work.

Dr. Grimm will act as directing head and employees of the county health department will, it is understood, act under his supervision while prosecuting the campaign. A number of government experts will also be sent here at a later time to assist Dr. Grimm.

The plan outlined by Dr. Grimm involves a thorough sanitary clean-up of the territory about the cantonment for six miles in each direction. The zone coming within the first mile of the camp will receive the most vigorous attention. Precaution will be taken to see that all breeding places for mosquitoes are removed and especial attention will be given to drainage, flies, garbage, cattle keeping and other things injurious to health conditions.

Visits will be made to every house in this zone by the government experts and advice will be given tenants as to how they can bring their premises up to the standard required by the government. The filling of ditches and other necessary work of this kind will probably be performed by the county at actual cost to property owners.

The Next Five Miles.

Outside of this one-mile zone the territory for five miles will also be thoroughly covered, although the work will not be as concentrated as in the zone contiguous to the cantonment.

A close tab will be kept upon all sickness in the whole 6-mile zone and precautions taken in each case to see that the disease does not spread. Grades and scores will be kept and households where there is sickness and the government's forces will keep in close touch with each case.

This branch of the government service will have no connection with sanitation work within the cantonment itself, as that is performed by the military branch.

While a six months' campaign has been tentatively decided upon between the counties and the government, Dr. Grimm stated Wednesday that there was no certainty about the duration of his stay, and that it was probable some sort of supervision would be exercised along these lines during the entire period of the cantonment.

Will Not Deal With Vice.

Dr. Grimm will not attempt to deal with vice conditions about the cantonment, although he says that this feature of the work is one of the most important factors in safeguarding the health of the soldiers and the community.

"The handling of the vice situation comes under the hygienic branch of the public health service," said Dr. Grimm, "and will probably be dealt with in due course by the government. But our work deals closely with sanitation, the principal object of which is prevention of diseases, which good sanitary conditions could prevent."

Dr. Grimm has established headquarters on the fifth floor of the courthouse in the offices of the public works department.

AMUSEMENTS

Loew Vaudeville.

(At the Grand.)

The new bill of vaudeville which opens at Loew's Grand this afternoon offers a treat to lovers of genuine music. The headliner is the Ceili Opera company, one of the most famous singing and musical organizations in vaudeville. (At the Odeon.)

Bessie Barriscale plays twin sisters in the Triangle play, "The Snarl," which comes to the Odeon theater today. For continual suspense and the excellent manner in which the dual role is handled this picture stands out as a screen gem. Miss Barriscale has never created finer characterizations than the twin sisters, one of noble inspirational charm and the other a frivolous creature without soul. Charles Gunn is leading man for the star and Howard Hickman, Thomas Gylse and Barny Sherry form the supporting company. Some very novel effects are obtained when the star is seen chatting, walking and exchanging caresses with herself while playing the double role.

(At the Strand.)

In "The Right of Possession," the Vitagraph-Blue Ribbon feature which is at the Strand theater today, Antonio Moreno, who is co-star with Mary Anderson, has an opportunity to show his cleverness as a cattle "rustler." One of the big scenes of the picure is a cattle stampede and there are many sidelights showing the cowboys lassoing, cutting out and branding. Moreno, who learned all these things since he entered motion pictures, works right along with the veteran cow-punchers and helps them in their labors. He shows that he can lasso a steer or brand a calf as well as any of them. He also displays his ability as a rider when he rides into the herd and helps stampede them.

Jackie Saunders.

(At the Vaudette.)

Jack Saunders in "A Bit of Kindling," the Mutual production, concludes its run at the Vaudette theater with today's showing. It is an interesting story of a waif and her love for a social ne'er-do-well who eventually becomes a man and her lucky husband. As "Sticks," the newsgirl, holding down a metropolitan corner, Miss Saunders fights for her rights against a lot of very tough lads and terrorizes them into subjection. She rescues a young society swell who had been hitting the "high spots," from a gang of alley thugs bent on robbing him, and after the story carries them through a variety of adventures, ends happily for them in a marriage.

"Enlighten Thy Daughter."

(At the Criterion.)

The story of "Enlighten Thy Daughter," at the Criterion today and all week, deals a powerful blow at the neglectful mother, who allows her daughter to grow up unwarned of the pitfalls that befall a girl. In contrast to the terrible ordeal of the unenlightened girl is the careful bringing up of her cousin. The tremendous dramatic moments are when Lillian, the unwarned, is dying, the result of her escapade with Harold Winthrop, and the cousin, Ruth, comes to the bedside and Lillian confesses. It has the indorsement of numerous organizations and was the first film play to receive the indorsement of the editor of the official organ of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

"Daughter of War."

(At the Alpha.)

"A Daughter of War," a five-reel special feature never before seen in Atlanta, is the offering of the Alpha theater today. This is a war picture, as its title indicates, full of red-blooded patriotism, which will make an instant appeal to every patriotic Atlantan. The scenes are graphic and the story is tragic. On Friday there will be a Charlie Chaplin burlesque, "The Dishonor System," which will also be seen for the first time in this city.

"The Slacker" Next Week.

(At the Criterion.)

"The Slacker," a seven-reel special Metro production, starring Emily Stevens, one of the most brilliant actresses upon the American stage and screen, will open at the Criterion theater Monday, August 6, for a run of the entire week. Strong in story, powerful in appeal, "The Slacker" is one of the most important cogs in the machinery of recruiting that the motion picture industry has yet offered to the public. It shows American manhood, American womanhood awake. It fans into the flams of active patriotism the dormant spirit that lies in the heart of every true citizen. It shows the struggles, hopes, fears, joys and sorrows of those who go to war and those who stay behind. Packed houses have paid tribute to its appeal wherever it has been shown.

WILL ORGANIZE HOME GUARD IN MARIETTA

Marietta, Ga., August 8.—(Special.) A patriotic meeting of Cobb county citizens for the purpose of stimulating recruiting in the Marietta Home guard troop has been called for Friday evening by Colonel J. Carlton Lynes, chairman of the executive committee of the organization.

A number of Marietta citizens joined together on July 13 in asking that a home guard be organized among men not subject to the draft, and on July 16 a meeting was held in the courthouse, where a temporary organization was perfected. Colonel Lynes was elected chairman; C. E. Daniell, secretary; J. C. Milam, Jr., Campbell Wallace and W. E. Potts completing the personnel of the committee. Messrs. Milam, Wallace and Potts were appointed a committee by Chairman Lynes to secure all available information on the duties of the organization. Colonel W. R. Power was appointed chairman of the recruiting committee, and at a second meeting on July 20, at which 100 men were present, announced that his committee had secured forty-seven men who had vouchsafed their willingness to join the organization.

The state law under which the organization is authorized requires sixty-five men, but there is little doubt here that there are 300 men in Cobb county who are willing to join.

Speakers at the meeting Friday, in which the ladies of Marietta are taking an active part, have been announced as follows: Judge N. A. Morris, Solicitor E. H. Clay, Mayor J. R. Brumby, Jr., J. P. Cheney, Lieutenant Colonel Fred Morris and C. Murphey Candler.

TRIES TO KILL SON, THEN SHOOTS HIMSELF

Commerce, Ga., August 8.—(Special.) William Hill, a white man in middle life, lies at the point of death tonight from a self-inflicted pistol wound just below the heart, where he shot himself this afternoon when officers arrived at his residence here to arrest him for shooting his 21-year-old son, Clarence with a shotgun shortly after noon. The young man is not seriously injured.

Father and son, both married, have been living together for some time, but after an altercation this morning the older Hill ordered his son to move out of his house. When the father returned to his home at noon he asked the boy why he had not moved out. Upon the boy replying that he wasn't ready, the father reached up on the wall and pulled down his shotgun. The young man started running, and though fifty-two shot punctures were found in his body, he was walking around in good health this afternoon.

Immediately after the shooting a warrant was issued for the father, and as the officer entered the house to serve it, he turned a 32-caliber pistol toward his breast, apparently aiming for his heart. Physicians say there is little hope for his recovery.

ANTI-PROHIBITION DAVIS WINS VIRGINIA CONTEST

His Nomination for Governor a Blow at Anti-Saloon League.

Richmond, Va., August 8.—Westmoreland Davis, of Loudon county, former president of the State Farmers' Union, was nominated for governor of Virginia in yesterday's democratic state primary, by a plurality estimated on the face of incomplete returns tonight to be from 6,000 to 8,000.

Lieutenant Governor J. Taylor Ellyson, of Richmond, who was supported for the nomination by the party organizations and largely by the anti-saloon league, conceded his defeat and telegraphed his congratulations to Davis.

Attorney General John Garland Pollard, of Richmond, who ran on a straight-out prohibition platform, was third in the race. Democratic nomination is regarded as equivalent to election.

The Ellyson men say the opponents of prohibition are responsible for the lead Davis took. They assert that Ellyson's backing by the dry forces was too stressed during the campaign. They also say that the fact that Davis was accused of marrying for money also caused a drift to the winner, as the voters resented the fact that Mrs. Davis' name had been brought into the campaign.

The Davis victory is considered a blow at the anti-saloon league of Virginia, which succeeded in making the state dry November 1, last, and is a stinging defeat of the democratic machine. The prohibitionists say the split in the dry vote between Ellyson and Pollard caused Davis to win. Davis is opposed to the constitutional prohibition amendment.

Other winners in the primary on the face of the returns, which tonight were about three-fourths complete, are:

John R. Saunders, of Middlesex, who defeated Hugh White, of Rockbridge, for attorney general; B. O. James, of Richmond, who defeated Philip Brown, of Blue Ridge Springs, for secretary of the commonwealth, and Harris Hart, of Roanoke city, who defeated R. C. Stearnes, of Roanoke county, incumbent, for superintendent of public instruction.

THE STATE DEFENSE BILL.

Pending in the general assembly is an act intended to link Georgia with every other state in the Council of National Defense, an organization in which thirty-eight of the forty-eight states of the union are now cooperating to their own as well as to the nation's welfare.

The main work of the various state committees of the Council of National Defense, briefly stated, is to put on record in direct and accurate form the resources of the respective states, listing with detailed statistics the state's agricultural, mineral, commercial and industrial facilities, its railroads and water power, developed and possible of development, etc.—primarily as a guide by which the federal authorities may formulate and carry out plans for the strengthening of the nation as a whole to meet any emergency that might arise.

The council is not exclusively a war-time vehicle, nor are the fruits of its labors to be confined to war-time uses, because the record of Georgia's resources and possibilities—besides giving the war authorities a definite idea of the extent to which this state may be depended upon in the present crisis—will not only establish Georgia's accomplishments and capabilities along with those of other states, but will be greatly helpful to Georgia itself in placing the state where it belongs in the record of national resources.

That the state work of national defense council will react upon the state advantageously, not only now in war-times, but that it will initiate certain principles of production, conservation, thrift and distribution among our people that will stand to the benefit of the public for all time to come, is a patent conclusion. And especially is this true with reference to the period of world reconstruction which is due to follow the war.

Furthermore, as one of its functions, the state unit of the Council of National Defense will impress upon many good people, who are still in the dark, the cold fact that America is actually at war, and that Georgia as a state must awaken to the fullest responsibility for its part in the war and perform its part with a degree of thoroughness and efficiency as becomes the dignity of the state as a great commonwealth.

The pending bill is one of major importance to the nation and to the state; and its enactment is greatly to be desired by every citizen imbued with national patriotism and state pride.

THE STRIKE MENACE.

So gravely concerned is the national government over the unrest of labor, given expression in various sections of the country in strikes and walkouts, that a committee has been designated by the war, navy and labor departments to study the situation with a view to bringing about whatever remedial steps may be found necessary to curb what has taken the form of an undoubted national peril.

Authorities in Washington frankly admit alarm over the situation; and well they might, because never before has the country been so generally torn by labor agitation and rebellion—this, too, in a season of the year when normally there are few labor difficulties.

Listed categorically by the Associated Press, the following are some of the principal labor disturbances that are most alarming at this time:

Twelve thousand metal trade unionists striking for higher wages in over thirty shipyards around New York.

Mine strikes or lockouts in Montana, Arizona, New Mexico, Pennsylvania and Kentucky.

Troubles in lumber districts in Washington state.

Telegraphers' demands on Rock Island railroads; Kansas City, Mexico and Orient railroad; New Haven system, and telegrapher's strike on the M., K. & T.

Threatened strike of 8,500 men, on Southern Pacific.

Number of strikes in textile mills in the south and east.

In addition to these storm centers, several cities, and in various geographical localities, are suffering in the throes of trolley-car and other local strikes; and still others are threatened; and there is trouble galore from Maine to California, either under way or impending, through the activities of the I. W. W. malcontents.

Officials state that the chief causes of labor unrest are the high cost of living and a determination to share in war profits. It must be conceded that in each of these elements is to be found a degree of extenuation.

It is to be hoped that the new government committee will go to the root of the difficulty, and that it will be able to suggest a fair and equitable solution—one that will be acceptable to employer and employee alike.

Very probably in some sort of national compulsory arbitration law, to apply in peace times as well as during the war—and the means for enforcing it—will eventually be found the only real and permanent remedy for the strike menace.

At any rate, something has got to be done, and the sooner the better; because every day of industrial stagnation means simply a proportionate prolongation of the war.

REV. M. ASHBY JONES.

To his many personal friends in Atlanta, and to the other thousands who have heard his eloquent voice, only to the more admire the man because of his rare gift, the announcement that Rev. M. Ashby Jones, long the pastor of the First Baptist church in Augusta, is soon to assume the pastorate of the Ponce de Leon Baptist church in this city, is received with genuine rejoicing.

That Augustans regret his departure equally as deeply as Atlantans rejoice over his coming is indicated by a recent editorial appreciation of him in The Augusta Chronicle.

"Few men," says The Chronicle—

"have been given the confidence and affection of a people as Dr. Jones, and he has won the admiration and love of all Augustans who knew him. . . .

"A man of high ability, singularly gifted in oratory, thoroughly grounded in theology, of gentle disposition, an earnest worker in the Cause of the Cross, his life is given to doing good among his fellow men. The community which can claim him as a citizen has the right to be proud of its good fortune. The church that can claim him as its pastor is well blessed.

"Augusta gives him up to Atlanta grudgingly. At the same time this city must heartily congratulate the capital city and Ponce de Leon congregation on having secured as citizen and pastor this gentle gentleman and this consecrated minister of God."

There is not in any pulpit in the south a man that surpasses this one in force or personality.

He is a man of wonderful power, and the best thing about him is that while he is a minister in the highest and truest sense of the term, he is none the less a man.

Broad-minded, liberal, and tolerant of the frailties and the essentially finite traits of his fellow-man, his influence and power for good among men far surpass what they could be were he constituted differently and were his mental processes moulded along more narrow and perhaps more strictly conventional or more sanctimoniously orthodox lines. One of the greatest elements contributing to his success is the fact that in the pursuit of his clerical duties he has always done his work on the level of mankind and of the common citizenship about him.

Were there more men like Mr. Jones in the pulpits there would be more men in the pews.

It is not to be wondered at that Augusta gives him up "grudgingly;" that her people deplore losing such a man and laments his going with a fervor equal to that in which Atlanta welcomes him!

ALL FOR THE COUNTRY!

The editor of The Tifton (Ga.) Gazette gives expression to the feeling of the fathers—and no less patriotic mothers—of the country, in this personal word of a son who has enlisted for army service:

Gerald Herring has enlisted in the aviation corps and left for Atlanta Monday night. We would not, by word or deed, stand between him and his duty, as he sees it. Had it been possible, we would have been in the service ourselves. To say that because we have seven sons we have one to spare, is to speak foolishly. Affection is individual; it knows not numerals. To us each of our boys stand alone, as if he were an only son; it could not be otherwise. Yet, while we have no boys to spare, we stand ready to surrender any, or all, even life, when duty calls or their country needs.

That is the truest test of patriotism—the readiness to give all!

And the real, self-sacrificing patriotic spirit speaks everywhere, and there is consecration in it.

"Had it been possible, we would have been in the service ourself" is no less the sentiment of a million than it is of one; for the regret of the veterans of other wars is that they cannot "fall in line" now, as of old.

North and south it is the same, and the voice of the veteran is—

It may be that my hair is white—
Such things, you know, must be;
But if this old Union's in for war,
Make one more gun for me!

It is the battle-winning spirit, handed down from father to son. If the country demands all, let it take all; for it's "All for the Country!"

However dear other things may be, war councils are cheap in Germany.

With all those graveyards to pass through, the kaiser must have a hard time of it whistling to keep up his courage.

Still, every little while the Bear turns and sharpens his claws, and fights like a man.

And still the kaiser is talking like a man who hasn't the least idea "where he is at."

The boys at the front are in the business of making news, but it's the home news they're wanting. Send it on!

It's dawning on the slacker that he'll be run over by the draft he is trying to sidestep.

An' you dunno the land that yer house stood on!
Oh, we knowed what trouble would come with the rain,
But we don't complain—

Oh, we knowed what trouble would come with the rain,—

Have we ji'ned the navy in these here scenes?
Has the house been hit by the subbermarines?
It's "a strange dispensation," is the word we're sayin',
But we don't complain—
Oh, we don't complain!

"We did our best to get in, but a baldhead with a fringe of gray around it, and a 'game' leg, defeated our purpose. But it's all right, even if we do have to stay home, which is just like being in war when we fail to walk a chalk line."

Bernard Suttler Makes Call To Patriotism of People

Editor Constitution: The paramount duty of the hour is unswerving loyalty; nothing short of that will win us the victory we must have lest democracy perish off the earth.

I believe that few Americans have any personal hatred of the German people, and I know that millions of them have been given a cordial welcome into our country, and that the majority of the Americans have had an admiration for the German people, but I cannot believe there are many Americans who would be willing to see world domination pass to any one nation, our own included.

I feel that every Georgian must blush for his state when our president is compelled to say in response to the patriotic resolution of the State Press association, that he rejoiced in receiving the resolutions, as otherwise he would have been unable to interpret the attitude of Georgia.

Our forefathers in the days of 1775 learned how to deal with Tories. It seems as if we must learn the lesson over again. If it must be, we will learn it. Let every loyal American man and woman who reads this send me their names and addresses, and we will shortly organize methods whereby we can show the error of their ways to those who are willing to sacrifice their own country by playing the Tory. BERNARD SUTTLER.

REPORT IS RECEIVED BY W. & A. COMMISSION

The Western and Atlantic railroad commission met Wednesday and received the report of Attorney W. A. Wimbish, of the commission. The report was amended and perfected by the commission, and will shortly be transmitted to the governor who will submit it to the general assembly.

The report covers the work which the attorney has done in connection with the lease of the road to the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad.

Thinks Doctors Are at A Disadvantage That the Government Should Recognize

Editor Constitution: In your Sunday issue there was an editorial, "Hazard of Army Surgeons." In this editorial you treated the matter mildly and kindly so far as the needs of the present emergency are concerned, and in relation to the doctor himself.

During the recent weeks much has been written, especially in medical journals, relative to the urgent needs of the army for surgeons and doctors, and, in these journals, some of the reasons have been brought out which evidently have contributed to the apparent hesitancy of the profession generally in volunteering for service. The general public has not, in all probability, thought much of the doctor's situation when compared to men in other callings, and it occurs to me that some explanation along this line may be just to the doctor, and may also serve to agitate a matter which may lead to greater justice to the army medical man. It is not essential to say the doctor is not wanting in bravery. He is daily taking his life in hand, placing it in jeopardy as he goes forth to heal all manner of contagious and infectious diseases. He never hesitates. Can a lack of bravery be ascribed to such men? No, there are other reasons behind their slowness to volunteer their time and service to their country. To begin with, what is required of the doctor in professional preparation? The very nature of his calling makes for him a double educational necessity. First, he must spend many years in literary preparation, for he is expected to equal or surpass all of his community in this regard. Next, the present advanced laws governing medical attainment make it necessary for him to spend not less than four years in a first-class medical college, after which time every ambitious doctor that can procures a position in some hospital, which means another year or more in his training for his life's work. Thus it will clearly be seen that his full educational preparation is attained comparatively late, and then he must settle down in some community to come into intimate contact with the older and already established and experienced physician. The average layman regards the elder man as his superior, so that he must plod for some years before he feels that he has a clientelle which will mean a fixed decent income to him. In the meantime, too, he, like other men, has in most cases assumed family obligations, making additional ties to bind him.

Now, let's see what it means to the doctor, after this early history, to tear himself away and go to the army front? His business is unlike that in almost any other line. The merchant may leave his with a trusted employee, and may find it in even better shape on his return than when he left it. The farmer can even trust many a wife to successfully run his farm during his absence. The lawyer is of less consequence to the community and will have much less trouble on returning in securing a supporting work; the peanut vender can in a day or two, on some corner, re-establish his parching business, but where is the doctor's practice after he has been away for one, two to four years? He must begin all over, though in the outset of his profession he has had to spend far more time and money in preparing himself than is true of any other man. His patrons have become attached to another, and it matters little to them now as to the former medical man, who left for war.

Not enough is being paid the army surgeon for sacrifice he must make. No regard is being had for him when he returns and must labor hard and most patiently for re-establishing himself. Why should not our great government give to him a kind of pension, about one-half his pay while in its service, for a reasonable time while he regains his work? Would not such an arrangement be a just consideration for the man who is second in importance to none other in the country's service? Who is it that has reversed the order of deaths in war during the last few decades? Formerly about ten men died of disease and infected wounds to one from outright killing in war. Now the reverse is true. The persistent advance in medical and surgical science, the work of the great medical profession, has brought this condition. We believe our country will eventually extend to the doctor that justice he should have under such circumstances, and every effort is now being made to induce the profession to furnish that number of volunteers, 20,000 to 40,000, that will be needed before the terrible European cataclysm is over. The profession admits its duty in the premises, and I am sure will not be derelict in eventually fulfilling that duty. J. G. DEAN.

Cotton-Seed Cake as Fodder Latest Brazilian Development

Editor Constitution: The "Quarterly," which is the official organ of the American Chamber of Commerce for Brazil, will publish in its next issue an extensive illustrated article on the "Cattle Situation in Brazil," by A. L. Moreau Gottschalk, consul general of the United States in this city.

Among other things, it says:

"In many quarters, people are beginning to turn their attention to the very great cotton-raising possibilities of this republic. Brazil was once a heavy exporter of cotton and is now producing, under normal conditions, quite enough to feed a well-developed cotton-milling industry. That there is an enormous future for Brazilian cotton and its by-products no one may doubt. The republic is the original home of one of the parent-cottons of the world, the cotton plant grows practically throughout the country (although with varying results, the north today showing the best crop results), and effort is being made by the introduction of modern scientific methods of culture and government support, to generalize cultivation and increase the national crop. Thus far no industrial use has been made of the seeds, but certain farseeing people here are looking to the time when the country's enormous consumption of olive oil (now bought chiefly from Portugal and Italy, and valued at $1,635,619), will be replaced by cottonseed oil of domestic manufacture.

"It does not seem over-imaginative to forecast that a time may, therefore, come in Brazil when cottonseed cake—the pulp left over after pressing out the oil from cotton seed—may play an important part as a cattle food, particularly in such southern portions of the country as may be unable, by reason of their winter season, to keep largely increased herds on their standing pastures alone. To the mind of anyone who really has at heart the interests of the country, this possibility of a new commercial interchange and a greater economic interdependence between the north and south of Brazil, such as the cotton seed cake business would afford, offers a very pleasing prospect."

The report will be furnished on application to Publicity Com. American Chamber of Commerce for Brazil, No. 1236 Caixa Do Correio, Rio De Janeiro, Brazil.

Unique Hidden Tribute To Revolutionary Heroes Written in Double Verse

Editor Constitution: In looking over an old family scrapbook, I find the following rhyme written in 1776, author unknown.

If read as written they are a tribute to the king and his army, but if the line starts after the comma in each line the verse has exactly the opposite meaning.

For instance the comma in the first line is after the word "sounds," and in the second line after the word "grounds." The hidden lines then would read: "The din of war alarms, doth call us all to arms," etc.

Hark! hark, the trumpet sounds, the din of war alarms
O'er seas and solid grounds, doth call us all to arms.
Who for King George doth stand, their honors soon shall shine.
Their ruin is at hand, who with the congress join.
The acts of Parliament, in them I must delight.
I hate their cursed intent, who for the Congress fight.
The Tories of the day, they are my daily toast.
They soon will sneak away, who independence boast.
Who nonresistant hold, they have my hand and heart.
May they for slaves be sold, who act the Whiggish part.
On Mansfield, North and Butte, may daily blessings pour.
Confusion and dispute, on Congress evermore.
To North and British lord, may honors still be done.
I wish a block and cord, to General Washington.

To Study Advertising Methods in South America

For its forthcoming investigation of the advertising methods in vogue in Latin-America, the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, department of commerce, has chosen as its agent Mr. J. W. Sanger, a practical advertising investigator, counsel, and writer of New York.

Mr. Sanger will study all the usual advertising methods in South America, paying particular attention to newspapers and other publications; direct-by-mail advertising, poster, street car, and electric-sign advertising, and motion-picture, sampling, novelty and other advertising. When the investigation is completed his conclusions and recommendations will appear in the form of a bulletin, and this bulletin, as well as his personal services in an advisory capacity when he returns to this country, will be available to any American manufacturer who wishes to promote trade in Latin-America by advertising.

Before leaving this country the special agent will devote two months to visiting manufacturers, exporters, advertising agents, and others who desire to learn something about advertising in South America and who have suggestions to make as to the scope of the investigation.

Manufacturers and others who wish to consult Mr. Sanger may address their inquiries to the Division of Commercial Agents, Room 409 Custom House, New York City.

MARKET BUREAU BILL IS URGED BY BROWN

Commissioner of Agriculture J. J. Brown has sent out an appeal to the farmers of the state urging that they press their representatives in the general assembly to see that the bill providing for the creation of a state market bureau be passed.

The commissioner urges that the serious problem is that of proper distribution of the food crops, and that the bureau would assist in seeing that the food crops raised by the farmers reach the markets which most need them.

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

OH, FOR A SOLVENT!

A correspondent writes:

"It seems I am predisposed to rheumatism. I was stricken with it two years ago. My right knee was swollen one-third above normal and the pain was intense. It lasted five weeks. Have not had it since, but at times I feel a dull ache. My doctor had me on an exclusive diet—would not allow me to eat acid fruits, sweets, meats or acids. I became thin and weak. Another doctor told me it was due to a germ, and not to uric acid. The alkaline treatment had not helped me. I take a solvent now as a preventive. Will you kindly tell me whether lithia water helps it? I have used 34 5-gallon carboys of it in two years. I want to know a good drug to take as a preventive, the very best solvent medical science has found."

Unhappy man! You selected a poor doctor. What is the solvent to dissolve? The germ? No chemical as yet discovered will dissolve or destroy germs in the tissues—not excepting salvarsan.

My good friend, forget everything you have learned about "rheumatism." Forget the name especially. Begin all over with the mere fact that you had an acute inflammation of your knee joint two years ago, and still have some trouble in or about the joint. Let that doctor who hinted that there were germs about find out where the germs have their base, and when he has discovered the base let him destroy it. Modern warfare against joint inflammation is as different from the methods employed twenty years ago as modern naval warfare is from the methods of 1898. Science moves with the world.

Certainly that acute knee inflammation was an invasion of germs. The germs established a base somewhere on your coast. Because this was concealed, do not imagine that it was not existent. Suppose it was a latent abscess at the root of a tooth which was filled or bridged or something ten years before. It would perhaps be painless, yet an X-ray film would disclose the base. Suppose it was in the pelvis; you would have forgotten—men like to forget the original infection; perhaps you imagined it was quite cured; but it smouldered away all through the years, and finally sent a detachment through to the knee joint.

There is but one solvent, one preventive, one cure for so-called "rheumatism." Find the base of the invaders and clean house. It makes a nice job for the best doctor you can employ—and there are plenty of scientifically trained family doctors in your vicinity.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Complexion and Disease.

Has the complexion or general color of the hair anything to do with an individual's relative susceptibility to disease or the severity of a given disease? (J. E. S.)

ANSWER—Dark complexioned persons, such as negroes and Irish, are more susceptible to tuberculosis; light complexioned persons seem less susceptible. That holds true only for members of those races in this country, not in their native countries. We have no evidence that individual variations of complexion influence susceptibility to disease.

Housemaid's Knee.

Please inform me how I can get rid of a housemaid's knee. Iodine has done no good. I have had the trouble for three months. A doctor wants to operate. It was tapped once, but filled up again in a few days. I am a housepainter and work on my knees a good deal. (M. R.)

ANSWER—I am afraid you will have to discontinue work for a while. Perhaps a plaster-of-Paris cast applied to the knee would bring about a cure. If not, you had better submit to the operation.

She Has Rings Sub-Orbital.

I and several of my friends have found your advice helpful for many things. I am sixteen years old, 65 inches tall, and weigh 105 pounds. Is that normal for a girl? I have dark rings under my eyes and my eyelids are puffy sometimes. Please tell me what to do. (M. B. W.)

ANSWER—Grow fat. You should weigh about 15 pounds more. Send s. a. e. for directions "How to Grow Fat."

Poisoning Children.

Will you kindly state whether the use of tea or coffee at each meal is harmful to children four or five years of age? (E. H.)

ANSWER—Children under twelve should never be given either tea or coffee, and better not even cocoa, we think. All of these beverages are nerve stimulants, and in moderation they may be, usually are, wholesome for adults, but young children need no nerve stimulants, and their nervous system is injured by tea, coffee or cocoa. Milk is the child's beverage.

WAR IMMUNITY BILL INTRODUCED IN HOUSE

A war immunity bill has been proposed to the house by McDonald and Pilcher of Richmond. The bill provides "immunity in the various courts in this state for parties defendant in all criminal misdemeanor matters while engaged in the service of the United States government as a part of the national army, or an officers' training camp, or in any other military service of the United States government."

PRIMARY MEASURE IS UP TO GOVERNOR

Neill Bill, Providing Election Reforms, Passed by Senate—Cook County Bill Is Also Passed.

The senate yesterday passed the Neill primary bill, which was vetoed last year by Governor Harris. The bill has already passed the house and now awaits the signature of Governor Hugh M. Dorsey. This will be the first important general bill and one of the very few to come to the governor's desk at this session.

This bill is now certain of becoming a law, since all it needs is Governor Dorsey's signature and this measure was strongly advocated by the governor during his campaign for office.

The senate declined to accept the substitute of Senator Brown, which would have provided for nominations by popular vote instead of by the county unit system, as provided in the Neill bill, and the Neill bill was passed by a vote of 34 to 7. The following senators voted against the bill:

Senators Beck, Brown, Council, Denny, Ficklen, Stevens and Wohlwender.

Provisions of the Bill.

Briefly the provisions of the Neill bill are as follows:

The party primaries for United States senator, governor, statehouse officers, justices of the supreme court and judges of the court of appeals shall be held on the second Wednesday of September of each year in which a general election is held. A candidate receiving the majority of the popular votes of a county shall be considered to have carried that county and to be entitled to the county unit votes of that county; that is, two votes for each representative the county has in the lower house of the general assembly. The candidate receiving the majority of county unit votes shall be declared the nominee of the party by the party convention, the chairman of the party state executive committee, or such other method as may be prescribed by the party executive committee.

In cases where no candidate receives a majority, however, the nomination shall not be arrived at by a vote in the party convention, but by a second primary.

If two or more candidates should tie for the highest popular vote in a county, the county unit vote shall be equally divided between the candidates so tying.

Where there are only two candidates for any particular office and it appears that these candidates have tied for the highest county unit vote, the candidate receiving the highest number of popular votes throughout the state shall be declared the nominee of the party.

Provides Second Primary.

If it shall appear that no candidate has received a majority of the county unit votes, the two candidates ascertained to have received the highest number of county unit votes each in the first primary, shall run again in a second primary to be held on the second Wednesday in October, following the first primary. If these two candidates in the second primary should receive an equal number of county unit votes, the candidate receiving the largest popular vote shall be declared the party nominee.

Where two candidates tie for the second highest number of county unit votes and no candidate has a majority of county unit votes, the candidate of those so tying who receives the largest popular vote shall run in the second primary against the candidate receiving the highest nmber of county unit votes.

The bill provides an exception, however, in cases of a tie in the highest number of county unit votes in races for governor and the United States senate, the candidate receiving the highest number of popular votes throughout the state shall not be declared the nominee; it being the intention of this proviso to provide that the majority of the county unit vote shall be the determining factor for the nomination of the United States senator and governor, and the plurality of the county unit vote shall be the determining factor for the nomination of all other offices mentioned in the bill.

The bill does not apply to primary elections of members of congress, judges of superior courts, solicitors general, members of the general assembly and county officers, except that the primary election for these offices shall be held on the date named for the other primary elections.

Passes Cook County Bill.

In addition to the Neill primary bill, the senate also passed on Wednesday by almost unanimous vote the bill of Senator Beck for the creation of Cook county. The bill provides for the creation of this new county out of a portion of the territory of Berrien county, with the city of Adel as the county site.

The bill of Senator Andrews, to place employment agencies and immigration agencies under the jurisdiction of the state department of commerce and labor, upon reconsideration, was passed. The object of this bill is in particular to place a curb upon the activities of agencies luring colored labor away from Georgia farmers, as was done on a wholesale scale last winter.

The Andrews bill amending that act creating the board of barber examiners so as to make the act operative in regard to one or two legal technicalities, was passed.

The reports of the special committees appointed to draft suitable resolutions upon the deaths of Senators A. A. McCurry and Ivey Felton Mundy were received.

The bill to revise the general tax act which was passed by the house Tuesday, was read for the first time in the senate.

SETTLEMENT REACHED IN THE LAGRANGE WAR

Fuller Callaway Accepts Conditions Insisted On by Representative Wyatt.

The LaGrange war, one of the hottest local municipal fights ever staged before the Georgia legislature, is over. It was finally and amicably settled before the house committee on municipal goverament yesterday afternoon, by the acceptance on the part of Fuller E. Callaway, who is seeking the incorporation as the separate town of Southwest LaGrange, of all the terms and conditions laid down by the people of LaGrange, and presented through Representative L .B. Wyatt.

This means that Southwest LaGrange, will be incorporated as a separate municipality for a period of twenty-eight months only, at the end of which time, on December 31, 1919, it is to become a part of LaGrange itself under the Greater LaGrange bill, extending the city limits for a mile in every direction.

Two Bills Considered.

There were two bills before the committee, presented by Representative Wyatt, who is from LaGrange. One was a substitue for the senate bill recently passed incorporating Southwest LaGrange. Mr. Wyatt offered the substitute, as he stated, in fairness to and for the protection of the taxpayers of LaGrange. He desired no more than that.

The conditions imposed in this substitute were that all bonds issued by Southwest LaGrange shall be sold in the open market to the highest bidder, and that no one interested in the mill properties shall purchase them; that they shall not bear over 4½ per cent interest, the same rate at which the bonds of LaGrange are issued; that the proceeds shall be expended only for lights, water, sewers, schools, streets, sidewalks and this class of municipal improvements; that approximately $15,000 of the proceeds shall be paid to the city of LaGrange for the municipal improvements she has already put there, and that the LaGrange tax rate shall be the rate fixed for Southwest LaGrange.

Greater LaGrange.

The other bill, creating Greater LaGrange goes into effect December 31, 1919, when Southwest LaGrange is to become a part of LaGrange, and the latter takes over the assets and assumes the liabilities of the former.

Mr. Wyatt stated that the people of LaGrange were simply seeking to protect themselves in the matter of a bond issue which they knew they would ultimately have to assume and pay, and in which they would not be protected by the other bill or in the event of Mr. Callaway's death.

After Mr. Wyatt had finished presenting his case, Hatton Lovejoy, representing Mr. Callaway, asked for a few minutes to consider the proposals of the LaGrange people. Upon returning to the committee room Mr. Callaway stated to the committee and Mr. Wyatt:

"We will accept all you have proposed here, provided you will agree to get these bills through."

"I will do that," said Mr. Wyatt, "but I cannot answer for your senator."

Report Bills Favorably.

Mr. Callaway assured him that the senator would be all right and everybody was happy. The committee will report both bills back favorably just as presented by Mr. Wyatt.

Thus LaGrange gets just what she wants, Mr. Callaway says he has what he wants, and the bills will go through as slated.

Among those who were here representing the people of LaGrange and who stood out against the original plan for the incorporation of Southwest LaGrange, were Councilman Howard P. Park, J. A. Baugh, S. W. Thornton, T. J. Thornton, J. E. Dunson, Jr., S. H. Dunson, M. U. Moody, Dr. L. D. Mitchell, Dr. E. R. Park, M. F. Lendon and others. They all went home last night much pleased and gratified over the settlement.

JACKSON AND BANKS CROP OUTLOOK BEST IN MANY YEARS

Maysville, Ga., August 8.—(Special.) Jackson and Banks counties have the finest crops of cotton and corn ever seen in this part of the state. The Grove river section in Banks county drained last year has miles of the finest corn ever seen on both sides of that stream, and the upland corn is fine in every direction.

The cotton crop was backward and sickly during the spring, but the hot weather and fine seasons of the last month has developed an unusual growth and unless some misfortune comes, the yield will be unusually fine.

Moultrie Citizens Will Appeal to the Railroad Commission for Depot

Moultrie, Ga., August 8.—The movement for a union depot here which had to be dropped because several of the railroads entering the city were placed in the hands of receivers, has been started again. The matter will be taken up with the lines and if they fail to give the agitators for the union station any satisfaction the railroad commission will be appealed to. It is contended that the present depots here are inconveniently located and inadequate.

TWO BILLS FAVORED BY HOUSE COMMITTEE

Two bills which have passed the senate were acted on favorably by the house ways and means committee yesterday afternoon.

One is a bill by Senator Odum, of the Ninth, fixing a time when tax collectors shall be compelled to close their accounts each year and providing penalties for their failure to do so.

The other is a bill by Senator Stevens, of the Thirteenth, providing for the collection of past due taxes, state, county and municipal.

Will Harvey, of Kentucky, one of the best-known of the general evangelists of the Southern Methodist church, will do the preaching, while the music will be led by a two-chorus choir, with Rev. W. J. Boring in charge. Services will be held daily, except Saturday, at 3:45 and 7:45 p. m. The afternoon services will be in the Gordon Street Presbyterian church and the night services in the large tent which is being used temporarily by the congregation until the completion of their new building.

DEFEND BRUNSWICK, LEGISLATURE URGES

Resolutions Providing for Adequate Preparations and for Use of Navy Yard Site Adopted by House.

Two important resolutions by Mr. Akin, of Glynn, urging the national government to provide adequate defenses for the port of Brunswick and requesting that use be made of the navy yard site, acquired on Blythe's Island sixty years ago, were adopted by the house yesterday afternoon.

In his first resolution Mr. Akin calls attention to the recent extraordinary development of the shipping interests at Brunswick and the location of large shipyards there. He points out that the provisions made for the defense of the port against hostile attack are entirely inadequate for the growing interests of the port. The matter is accordingly brought to the attention of congress and it is urged that temporary defenses be provided at once and that permanent defenses be added as soon as possible.

In regard to the navy yard site, Mr. Akin recited that the site on Blythe's Island had been purchased about sixty years ago after an exhaustive report by naval experts showing that it was the most available site on the southeastern coast. For some reason no use has ever been made of it and the site is still there, the idle property of the government. The resolution urges congress to take the matter up and develop the site as a naval and repair yard at as early date as possible.

Both resolutions were immediately ordered transmitted to the senate so that action may be taken on them at this session.

Voodoo Doctor's Advice And Superstitious Nature Lands Negro Behind Bars

Never follow the advice of the voodoo man if his instructions involve the purloining of another's property. It is even dangerous to swipe your neighbor's dishrag in an effort to cure an obstinate wart, and when you cut your hand with a knife you had better let the hand suffer than try the old scheme of burying the knife up to the hilt in the heart of a tree.

That is what Ned Flewellyn did—so he claims—when he cut his hand on a knife belonging to the Piedmont hotel, where he was employed as a dishwasher. Ned declared in the criminal court that after cutting his hand very badly, a voodoo man told him the tree stunt was the only cure. Ned tried, and the result was that he was hailed into court on the charge of larceny of a knife, valued at $1.50, and was fined $50.00 by Judge A. E. Calhoun.

Ned states that his faith in the good old-fashioned methods is waning, and the next time it will be modern court-plaster for his—even at the risk of getting a piece smeared with Teuton tetanus germs.

ATLANTA GROCER SPANKS HIS CLERK TO MAKE HIM WORK

There is said to be many different ways in which an employer can get work out of an employee, but it remained for an Atlanta groceryman to hit upon an entirely new and novel plan. He simply spanked his clerk.

There was arraigned in the police court yesterday afternoon C. C. Stanberry, who runs a grocery store at 327 South Moreland avenue. Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Cook, of 1071 East Fair street, had their little 11-year-old son in court to tell how the storekeeper had severely spanked him with a hairbrush.

Johnnie Cook, the young clerk, told the court that his boss had turned him across his knees and spanked him with the brush in a most "unmerciful" manner.

Stanberry pleaded guilty. He said that he had hired Johnnie to work in the store, and that one day he found the boy riding a bicycle in the street.

"He disobeyed my orders," said the merchant, "and I spanked him."

Stanberry was held for assault and battery and required to give a $300 bond for his appearance before the grand jury.

ROSE CO. STOCKHOLDERS VOTE TO REORGANIZE

At a meeting Tuesday the stockholders of the Randolph Rose company unanimously voted to reorganize and take the concern out of bankruptcy.

This was made possible because the $60,000 claim of the R. M. Rose company, the Chattanooga whisky house, was defeated, and by so defeating this claim, the company was thereby adjudged solvent by the bankruptcy court.

At a meeting of creditors of the company held prior to the stockholders' meeting, the creditors agreed to grant an extension to the company in order that the reorganization might take place free from pending litigation.

The bankruptcy petitions both in Chattanooga and Atlanta against the company have been dismissed.

"HOLY ROLLER" LEADER TO CLOSE MEETINGS

The Rev. Lemons conducts a sort of gospel tent at the corner of Gordon street and Greensferry avenue, was before the recorder Tuesday afternoon from 2:30 until 8 o'clock, and again Wednesday afternoon, all because a host of people living near the gospel tent swore that the meetings were a nuisance.

The Rev. M. S. Lemons, who has a independent religion, and his people are called "Holy Rollers," a name to which they seriously object.

After over 200 people had been heard from, the Rev. Lemon decided to close his meetings Sunday night, and the case against him was dismissed by the recorder.

Tonight! Take Dodson's Liver Tone! Better Than Calomel For Liver

Calomel sickens! If bilious, constipated and headachy read my guarantee.

Listen to me! Take no more sickening, salivating calomel when bilious or constipated. Don't lose a day's work!

Calomel is mercury or quicksilver which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel, when it comes into contact with sour bile, crashes into it, breaking it up. This is when you feel that awful nausea and cramping. If you are sluggish and "all knocked out," if your liver is torpid and bowels constipated or you have headache, dizziness, coated tongue, if breath is bad or stomach sour just take a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone.

Here's my guarantee—Go to any drug store and get a 50-cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone. Take a spoonful tonight, and if it doesn't straighten you right up and make you feel fine and vigorous by morning, I want you to go back to the store and get your money. Dodson's Liver Tone is destroying the sale of calomel because it is real liver medicine; entirely vegetable, therefore it can not salivate or make you sick.

I guarantee that one spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone will put your sluggish liver to work and clean your bowels of that sour bile and constipated waste which is clogging your system and making you feel miserable. I guarantee that a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone will keep your entire family feeling fine for months. Give it to your children. It is harmless; doesn't gripe, and they like its pleasant taste.

MAY 20 SET AS DAY FOR CONTRIBUTIONS TO GREAT MEMORIAL

A senate resolution, adopted in the house yesterday afternoon by substitute, sets aside May 20 of each year as Stone Mountain Memorial day, on which Georgians are asked to contribute, as liberally as they can afford, to the completion of the confederate monument to be carved by Gutzon Borglum on the face of that mountain.

The governor is asked to call attention to the day by proclamation fifteen days in advance each year, beginning May 20, 1918, and continuing until the mammoth monument, which has been planned, is completed.

20 Per Cent Dividend Sent to Contributors To Atlanta Fire Fund

Lee Ashcraft, chairman of the general executive committee of the citizens' commission for the burned district, has mailed out to contributors to the fund for the relief of the fire sufferers letters containing checks for a 20 per cent dividend on the amounts donated for this cause.

The ability of the committee to make this return upon the money donated is due to the strict economy exercised by Mr. Ashcraft's committee.

The letter accompanying the checks reads as follows:

Inclosed please find check made payable to you. This is a 20 per cent dividend on the amount which you so generously contributed to the relief of the Atlanta fire sufferers.

Your committee could have spent all of this money and much more, but they felt that, on account of the many calls which would be made on you, due to the present war conditions, that every economy, consistent with the work they had to do, should be practiced.

We have been approached by committees representing very worthy causes, and asked that we appiy this balance to their particular worthy work, and, while we were in hearty sympathy with the work which they were undertaking, we feel that the only proper course for us to pursue is to return the money to you.

As soon as the auditors can make up a final report of the rtceipts and disbursements for your information, copy of same will be published in the daily papers.

As chairman, I am directed to say that it has been a deep pleasure to have the members of your committees and subcommittees serve in their various ways a people who can respond as generously and nobly as you and the other Atlantans did on this occasion.

BROTHER IN ARMY, THIS NEGRO WANTS TO DO HIS "BIT"

Gainesville, Ga., August 8.—(Special.) Wanting to do something for his people and for his country, George Ware, a negro residing at Demorest, Ga., applied at The Eagle, a local newspaper office, yesterday afternoon for assistance in getting into the army. He said that he had a brother in the service in France, the brother being in active service of the United States army since the Spanish-American war, enlisting and serving throughout that war.

Ware claims that he is a good cook and willing to go in this service, but had rather "shoulder a gun and get into the real fight." He claims that he applied for enlistment but was turned down, owing to a recent operation for appendicitis. He was referred to the recruiting station in Atlanta, and left the office, saying that he would try to get in as cook.

100,000 NEW MEMBERS.

Red Cross Shows Big Gain in Five States.

Nearly 100,000 members have been added to the Red Cross since the war began in the five states, which compose the southern division. Of these five states Georgia leads with a membership of 43,000. Membership in other states in the southern division is as follows: North Carolina, 18,000; South Carolina, 12,000; Tennessee, 26,000; Florida, 17,000.

From a membership in the five southern states of 20,000 when headquarters was established in Atlanta several months ago, the number has increased to 116,000 and new chapters are being added daily constantly increasing the total number.

HIGHWAY COMMISSION MEETING IS POSTPONED

Report on the Atlanta-Macon Highway Will Be Considered Today, It Is Announced.

The meeting of the state highway commission, which was scheduled to have been held Wednesday for the consideration of the report of Engineer Ed Davis upon the Atlanta-Macon highway project, was postponed until Thursday.

Judge T. E. Patterson, chairman of the commission, stated that the meeting will be held today and that the report of the engineer, carrying the final details of information asked by the United States office of good roads, will be gone over and worked into shape for presentation to the federal office.

Judge Patterson plans to carry the report to Washington in person and insist that the long-delayed apportionment of federal funds to Georgia for this purpose be furnished the state at once.

Police Association Must Get New Charter To Continue Business

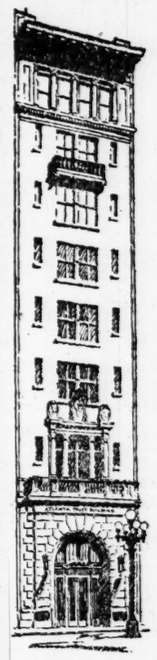

The Police Relief association will hold a meeting this afternoon at police headquarters to decide whether the organization will continue in existence. The decision will be made by popular vote. It was discovered recently that the organization has been without a charter for the last three years. The original charter was for twenty years. The organization has about 250 members, and has assets of about $20,000. The association is composed of members of the Atlanta police department, the object being to pay sick and death benefits to police officers and families of police officers.

MURRAY FIGHT SETTLED.

County Board Abolished by the Legislature.

The old Murray county fight of half a dozen years' standing, which has led to the imprisonment of the county commissioners, repeated reviews of cases before the high courts of the state and political fights without number, is now settled definitely, according to Senator E. H. Beck, of the Forty-third, whose bill abolishing the county commissioners of Murray county has been signed by the governor.

Senator Beck stated that the power of the board under the law creating the board was practically absolute, and that the only solution of the situation was in the repeal of the act and the abolishment of the board. The county ordinary is directed to take charge of the affairs of the county until the passage of a bill now pending which would create a board of supervisors for Murray county, in lieu of the commissioners' board which has been abolished.

A bank account will improve your credit standing

Whenever one makes application to open a charge account at a store, one of the first questions asked is, "Have you a bank account?"

A steadily growing account will strengthen your rating more than probably any other factor, and will often enable you to secure credit when otherwise your application might be rejected.

WHIFFS

Likes Whiffs.

WE ARE in receipt of the following letter from the firemen at headquarters on Alabama street: "We take this way of thanking you for 'Whiffs.' It is the best sporting news in the shortest way we have ever had the pleasure of reading. We are glad to have you back at your old stand. Let there be more whiffs. Best wishes from the Firemen."

Coincident.

THE PELS and Crackers keep close together. Recently Memphis was playing in Atlanta and Chattanooga in New Orleans, and at the conclusion of the series Whiffs called attention to the fact that the Crackers had won 10 and lost 1 with the Chicks, while the Pelicans had the same record with the Lookouts. This parallel case held again in the series just closed. The Crackers won 7 out of 11 from the Vols, while the Pels' quota was the same number with the Travelers.

Eliminated.

WE HAVE eliminated the Mobile record from Ad Brennan's pitching and batting records as they appear in The Constitution daily, and in the future only his record with the Crackers will be included. Of course, in the official averages at the conclusion of the season Brennan's total record with both teams will be shown, but we would rather show the bright side each day as a stimulant to further fine deeds by the veteran southpaw.

The Ruling.

RECENTLY Red Day won two ball games that the fans could not understand that he won. He was lifted for a pinch hitter and before the start of the next inning the Crackers had pounded in enough runs to win the game. We contended then that Red got credit for everything that happened in this inning. In this we were correct.

Howe's Rule.

WE APPEALED to Irwin M. Howe, the offical statistician of the American league, to substantiate our contention, which he does, citing the ruling of the American league, the American association, the Western league and the International league. He cites it in two sections.

Another Tangle.

THE FANS also failed to understand why Bressler should have been charged with the loss of the thirteen-inning game with Chattanooga. They thought Hess ought to have been the man. But Bressler put the winning run on the bases (Elberfeld's double). The rule covering this reads, "If he leaves one or more runners on bases he is responsible for the runs scored by those runners or by players who force them off in order to get on. It matters not whether the runners left score as the result of base hits by succeeding batsmen off the relieving pitchers or through errors or in any other manner. If, as the result of the scoring of such runs, the opposing team takes the lead and the score is not afterwards tied, the pitcher who was relieved (the one who left the men on base) is charged with the loss of the game."

Strenuous Schedule for Georgia Tennis Entrants in Effort to Complete Tourney

On account of the heavy rains no tennis was played Wednesday. Provided the sun comes out and there is no rain for the rest of the week, Mr. Cooper states that he hopes to be able to finish the tournament by Saturday night.

Mrs. J. M. Milam, Georgia state champion, 1916, is in town now, arriving from Greenville, S. C., late Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Annis and Miss E. Morrison, expert wielders of the racket, from Chattanooga, Tenn., also reported ready for play yesterday morning.

The Macon stars, Mason and Moore, with Mrs. Moore, who promised to give the ladies a "run for their money," will arrive early Thursday morning.

A strenuous schedule is arranged for Thursday. Beginning at 10 a. m., five matches will be played Thursday, and by the end of the day's play, some interesting tennis will have been played.

By that time the players who will play in the semi-finals in the ladies' singles can be "doped" out.

Much interest is being manifested in the ladies' tournament. Mr. Cooper receives telephone calls each day from the ladies who wish to enter.

There seems to be more interest in this tournament than any tennis tournament held in Atlanta in several years. All of the "old-time" tennis players are getting back in the game, and the Cascade Tennis club is to be congratulated for the interest they are instilling in tennis.

ELLIS AND SOUTH ARE TRAINING HARD

Much interest is being shown in the ten-round bout between Battling Ellis and Charley South, scheduled to take place at the Columbia theater Friday night.

Both boys are down to hard training and promise to put up a slashing affair. They have already clashed in two hot battles, and their coming go is expected to be even better than their previous scraps.

Two four-round bouts will fill out the card, making eighteen rounds of boxing in all. Mike Saul will referee the bouts.

The scraps will be staged in addition to the theatrical performance, with no extra admission charge.

Colored Teams Play.

On account of being rained out the colored teams of Anderson, S. C., and Atlanta Cubs will play two games Thursday and Friday on Morris Brown campus. Game called 3:30 p. m. Admission, 10, 15 and 25 cents.

FRANK THRASHER TIED THE RECORD

Nap Lajoie Made Eight Hits in Eight Times Up October 9, 1910—Created Big Sensation Then.

By Dick Jemison.

Frank Thrasher did not set a world's record for consecutive hits in one day when he banged eight straights in the double-header in Nashville Tuesday, but he did tie the record.

The record of eight straights was made by Napoleon Lajoie, then with Cleveland, now manager of the Toronto, International league, club.

Lajoie's feat occurred October 9, 1910, in the final games of the season between Cleveland and St. Louis, and created a situation that came near resulting seriously for several members of the Browns.

One of the St. Louis sporting writers contended that the St. Louis pitchers were "grooving" them for Lajoie, and that the St. Louis fielders were making no attempt to get the balls. This hippodroming was in an effore to beat Ty Cobb out of the batting honors, which Cobb won by a fraction of one point.

Opening Advance in Cotton Is Followed by Violent Break

PROFESSIONAL VIEWS ON COTTON SITUATION

New York, August 8.—(Special.)—Domestic and Liverpool interests bought considerable cotton in the early part of today's sessions. Later the favorable government weather report caused a sharp decline and free liquidation of October contracts. Official southern spot markets were reported firm. There were no exports today. Should the western and southwestern parts of Texas receive rainfall shortly we believe that the market will sell lower. The trade is of the judgment that peace prospects are more promising than heretofore.

J. W. JAY & CO.

New York, August 8.—(Special.)—On buying by a Wall street house, the market opened some 30 to 40 points higher to meet selling by spot houses; so when predictions of showers in western Texas for today and tomorrow were received the advance was lost. Then an excellent crop reported for the week was issued by the weather bureau. This is the third successive week that the bureau has issued an improving crop report, which in its details agree with private advices. The trade are curious as to whether it will be contradicted at the end of the month by the crop estimating bureau of the agricultural department, which department has supervision over both bureaus. There has been some hedge selling from the south, but most of the early receipts are going to fill up scattered odds and ends of freight-room at high prices, greatly to the benefit of those farmers who have early crops.

Summary for the Cotton Region States.

New Orleans, August 8.—Temperatures are slightly above the seasonal average in the western and near or slightly below in the eastern half of the cotton region. Maximum temperatures ranged from 92 degrees to 102 degrees in the western, from 90 degrees to 98 degrees in the central, and from 82 degrees to 94 degrees in the eastern cotton states. Showers were locally heavy over the greater portions of western South Carolina, Georgia, central Alabama, extreme northwestern Mississippi, and Oklahoma. Local showers occurred in Arkansas, east-central Mississippi, and extreme southern Louisiana.

CLINE.

Summary of Weather and Crop Conditions in the Cotton Belt for the Week Ending August 7, 1917.

Washington, August 8.—Showers occurred at nearly one-half of the reporting stations in Texas and general rains from Louisiana eastward, and in Oklahoma. Rainfall was too heavy at a few places in the extreme south. But little rain fell from Arkansas eastward to North Carolina. Cotton has improved except in central and western Texas, where it is deteriorating. At most other places it is growing and fruiting well, with very little shedding. Bolls are opening in the south and picking has begun. The weevil was checked in Arkansas by dry weather and sunshine. The weather was favorable for rice, sugar cane, sweet potatoes, forage crops, peanuts, and pastures, except that ranges in New Mexico and western Texas need more rain.

MARVIN.

Synopsis of Weather and Crop Conditions in Georgia for the Week Ending Tuesday, August 7, 1917.

During the past week heavy rains occurred in the extreme southern part of the state and along the coast districts, which caused some injury to crops, while in the middle Savannah river watershed the precipitation has been insufficient and rain is still needed. Generally, however, the weather during the past week was very favorable. Abundant rains fell, and this heat wave was dissipated by several days of cloudy weather, which caused a considerable fall in temperature. Improvement in crops is reported quite generally, they are growing rapidly, and cultivation is practically finished. Cotton is holding its fruit well, is beginning to open fast in the southern portion, where picking is under way; the first bales have been marketed. Early corn is ripening and late corn is growing nicely. Pastures and meadows have improved, assuring a better crop of hay than anticipated. Sweet potatoes are very promising, and peanuts, sugar cane, field peas and beans, fall truck crops, and fall Irish potatoes are doing well.

Marietta Men Have Narrow Escape When Train Strikes Auto

Marietta, Ga., August 8.—(Special.)—E. L. Roberson, express agent at Marietta, and J. W. Hancock, president of the Marietta Ice and Coal company, had a most miraculous escape from death when they were run down at a crossing in Marietta yesterday by an N., C. & St. L. Ry. train. The automobile in which they were riding was caught in the middle of the track and carried fully 100 feet down the track before the train could be stopped.

Mr. Hancock was thrown over thirty feet in the air, and was considerably bruised and otherwise injured, but it is not thought his injuries will be very serious. Mr. Robertson was not injured, except from a general shaking up.

The automobile was wrecked, and the only thing that saved the lives of both of the occupants was that the car in which they were riding was a heavy roadster and an open-top car, and the force of the impact threw them clear of the wreck.

Twenty Ware County Men Accepted for Draft For Failing to Report

Waycross, Ga., August 8.—Tomorrow night the last chance for registrants who were passed at the recent examination for the new national army to file claims of exemption will pass. The local board will be in a position Friday to tell how many men remain as eligible for the army, and thereafter as rapidly as possible wil begin work on the exemption claims.

Failure to report for examination has caused twenty men to be posted as accepted. The board feels certain that from the men who will not claim exemption and from those who have claimed exemption but will not be excused Ware's quota of 71 will be secured.

After the first batch of men were examined last Friday it was feared a second call would have to be made in this county.

New York, August 8.—A sharp opening advance was followed by even a more violent break in the cotton market today with October contracts selling down from 26.35 to 25.55 and closing at 25.57, compared with 25.97 yesterday. The general list closed steady at a net decline of 62 points on August and of 16 to 40 points on later months. The opening was strong at an advance of 26 to 48 points and active months sold about 38 to 48 points net higher during the early trading, with December and January both touching 26.10, or back to within a few points of yesterday's best level. Bullish sentiment seemed to be encouraged by the failure of the early map to show any rain in the southwest, while there was renewed talk of a better outlook for exports and continued good spot demand. There also appeared to be a little optimistic feeling as to peace prospects based upon reports that a French buying agent was coming here to purchase agricultural implements and other commodities used in peace times. Stop orders were uncovered on the advance, but as soon as they had been executed demand tapered off and the market weakened on the official forecast for showers in the southwest. Selling was further stimulated by a favorable weekly report from the weather bureau, and the market was very unsettled in the late trading, with near months relatively easy on reports that cotton was being shipped here from the interior. December broke to 25.37 and January to 25.35, with the market closing a few points up from the lowest on covering.

Spot cotton quiet; middling 27.15.

In New Orleans.

New Orleans, August 8.—After a short-lived bulge around the opening here today, cotton fell off under selling for both accounts, reaching lowest levels late in the session when the market was 41 points under yesterday's last prices and closing at a net loss of 31 to 36 points. The selling wave started on the favorable construction placed on the government's weekly crop and weather reports, and also was encouraged by the forecast of rains tonight and tomorrow for the greater part of Texas.

The early rise carried the market 31 to 37 points up, and was caused by the continued rains in the eastern belt and the continued drouth in Texas. Many brokers considered the market top-heavy at the highest levels of the session. While the tone was steadied by the spot situation, spot news did not have as much effect as it has recently.

For a while in the early afternoon prices were 10 to 15 points up from the lowest, but disturbing political rumors of vague character were heard toward the close and helped unsettle the market.

Spot cotton quiet and unchanged. Sales on the spot, 65; to arrive, 26. Good ordinary, 24.50; strict good ordinary, 25.00; low middling, 25.50; strict low middling, 25.87; middling, 26.25; strict middling, 26.44; good middling, 26.62; strict good middling, 26.80. Receipts, 941; stock, 149,212.

IMPROVEMENT SHOWN BY COTTON REPORT

Washington, August 8.—Cotton over the greater portion of the belt showed general improvement the past week, according to the weekly weather and crop bulletin issued today. Moderate to heavy rains fell during the week in Oklahoma and from Louisiana eastward to South Carolina, but it was excessive at a few points in the southern and southeastern states.

In that part of Texas where rain fell, cotton improved, while picking progressed rapidly in the southern part of the state. Cotton deteriorated in that portion of the state where no rain occurred.

The crop improved steadily in Oklahoma, and the prospect is mostly excellent. Dry weather and sunshine checked the weevil in Arkansas and cotton is good nearly everywhere.

In Louisiana the crop generally is good, while good growth was made in Tennessee and North Carolina.

There was too much rain at some points in Mississippi, but the crop prospect generally is good.

While dry weather and sunshine are needed in Alabama, cotton is growing satisfactorily and fruiting well.

In Georgia the fruiting is holding on well and the bolls are opening fast. Picking is under way in the southern part of this state.

The plants are growing well in South Carolina and fruiting well.

In Florida the condition of the crop continues good.

Some reports of weevil came from Mississippi and Alabama, but serious damage apparently was in restricted districts.

ADVANCE IN CORN DESPITE BIG CROP

Government Figures, Although Bearish, Not So Large as Had Been Predicted — Wheat Declines 3-4 Cent.

Chicago, August 8.—Misgivings which turned out to be correct that the government crop report, although bearish, would not indicate so large a yield of corn as had been generally predicted led today to a moderate upturn in corn prices. The market closed steady, ½ to ⅝c net higher at $1.17½ to $1.17⅝ December and $1.14⅜ to $1.14½ May. Wheat declined ¾c net, closing steady at $2.25 September. Oats gained ⅜c to ½c, and provisions 25 to 70c.

Wary shorts in the corn market began in the last half of the session to take measures to guard against any possible surprise in the government report. As a rule, the trade has been looking for an estimated yield of about 3,200,000,000 bushels, but finally concluded that this total was too high at present, as the official figures would not take account of the full benefit from recent rains. Then, too, there were advices from Kansas to the effect that the crop in some sections had been irreparably damaged.

The result here was a gradual upturn in values that much more than offset a decline which had been witnessed in the earlier part of the day. Discussion of dangers from frost counted somewhat unsettled factor in hardening quotations in the dealings near the close.

Wheat traders failed to anticipate the falling off which the government report showed in the probable yield of wheat. The fact that harvesting had commenced in Canada tended somewhat to favor the bear side of the market. More or less depression was also due opinions expressed that to all practical purposes the passage of the food bill would stifle business in future deliveries.

Oats rallied in sympathy with corn. Houses with seaboard connections were the best buyers. The government report as to oats was about what a majority of dealers had looked for.

Strength characterized provisions throughout the day. The chief bullish influences came from an advance of maximum prices in England.

Shipments of fresh and cured meats from here were much larger than was the case a year ago.

Government Predicts Largest Crop Of Corn Ever Grown in United States

Total Production of 3,191,000,000 Bushels Indicated. Wheat Shows a Decrease, the Total Estimate Being 653,000,000 Bushels.

Washington, August 8.—A corn crop surpassing any ever grown before; a reduction in wheat prospects, due to damage to the spring wheat crop, and record crops of barley, rye, white and sweet potatoes, tobacco and hay were forecast today in the August 1 crop report of the department of agriculture.

Corn production was placed at 3,191,000,000 bushels, an increase of 67,000,000 bushels over the July forecast and 68,000,000 bushels above the record crop of 1912. The showing is due to vast improvement in the growing corn in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa and Missouri. In Kansas the condition declined to 33 per cent of normal, compared with 66 per cent on July 1, and as a result, Kansas' crop is forecast at 81,740,000 bushels, compared with 169,536,000 bushels forecast in July. Oklahoma's crop showed a decline from 61 per cent of a normal to 30 per cent, with production forecasts reduced from 65,592,000 bushels to 33,844,000 bushels.

Spring wheat production, forecast in July at 276,000,000 bushels, showed the results of adverse weather conditions. The prospects are put at 236,019,000 bushels, a drop of about 40,000,000 bushels from the July 1 report. North Dakota's crop suffered most with a loss in prospective production of about 15,000,000 bushels, while South Dakota lost almost 3,000,000 bushels, and Washington 7,000,000 bushels.

Winter Wheat.

Winter wheat, however, is turning out better than previously forecast, with a forecast total of 417,000,000 bushels, or 15,000,000 bushels more than indicated from July conditions.

The combined yield of winter and spring wheat, therefore, shows a reduction of 25,000,000 bushels from the production forecast in July. The crop forecast from August 1 conditions will be only 653,000,000 bushels, or 13,000,000 bushels more than harvested last year.

Potatoes are expected to yield 467,000,000 bushels, or 15,000,000 bushels more than forecast from July conditions and 47,000,000 bushels more than the record crop of 1912. Sweet potatoes also will be a record with 86,400,000 bushels.

There will be an enormous crop of tobacco, almost 120,000,000 pounds larger than the record production of last year. The buckwheat crop will be the largest in many years, and oats will come close to equaling the record made in 1915.

Following are the forecasts of production of the principal crops as estimated by the crop reporting board from the thousands of reports on conditions August 1 received by it from every part of the country (figures are in millions of bushels, i. e., 000,000's omitted) with the forecasts made from July 1 conditions, last year's final production and the average production for the five years, 1911-15.

STOCKS DEPRESSED BY PEACE RUMORS

Administration's Reported Policy Respecting War Prices Was Also Strong Factor in Wall Street.

New York, August 8.—The administration's reported policy respecting war prices, cumulative signs that industrial interests deem it expedient to strengthen their cash resources, and persistent peace rumors were the overshadowing factors in today's weak stock market.

Industrials, equipments, coppers and other shares which comprise the bulk of the daily turnover were subjected to constant pressure at extreme declines of 3 to 10 points. Bethlehem Steel again bore the brunt of the liquidation, the new stock falling 10 points and the old 9½. United States Steel reacted 4⅜ points and closed with no material recovery.

Metals owed much of their depression to a combination of adverse legislation and labor troubles and motors reflected the cut in the Studebaker dividend, that incident also calling attention to the less optimistic feeling regarding conditions in the industry.

Tobaccos, shippings and secondary rails displayed underlying strength, but failed to attract more than passing interest. Investment rails were only temporarily stimulated by the June statement of the interstate commerce commission, which reported large gains in earnings. The crop report, issued in the final hour, seemed below expectations in the main. Total sales of stocks amounted to 660,000 shares.

There was little demand for speculative loans, but time money was firmer preceding payments on the $100,000,000 Canadian notes and $300,000,000 treasury certificates.

Exports of gold to Japan were renewed after brief cessation and further shipments of the metal to Spain and South America were under negotiation.

Apathetic investment conditions were denoted by the irregular tone of the bond market. Liberty 3½'s again varied from 99.62 to 99.52. Total sales, par value, aggregated $2,870,000.

United States bonds were unchanged on the call.

Other sales were 20,000 to 30,000 bags Porto Ricos August-September shipment at 7.52 and 1,000 tons Peru at 6⅝ c.i.f., August-September shipment. Spot prices were higher as follows: Centrifugal, 7.52 to 7.65; molasses, 6.66 to 6.77, and cost and freight, 6½ to 6⅝.

Refined sugar was also firm without further change. There was a heavy demand, but very limited offering at any price. Fine granulated, 8.40 to 8.75.

Sugar futures were strong, at new high records. After opening 6 to 10 points higher, the market eased a little, but met good support, and was firm later on buying by operators with the close irregular at 9 points advance to 8 points decline. MACON CITIZENS OBJECT TO J. H. HALL'S STAND

Will Hold Mass Meeting in Chamber of Commerce Hall This Morning.

Macon, Ga., August 8.—(Special.)—Two measures being fathered in the legislature by Joe Hill Hall, one of the Bibb county representatives, will be the subject for discussion at a meeting called at the chamber of commerce auditorium for tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. They are the one providing for an appropriation of $35,000 to purchase the property of the Jackson estate for an annex to the state capitol, and the other is that prohibiting municipal ownership of public utilities without first obtaining the consent of the state railroad commission.

A great deal of resentment has been aroused here by Mr. Hall's advocacy of these measures and resolutions will probably be adopted asking him to desist from pushing them further.

CHILD'S TONGUE BECOMES COATED IF CONSTIPATED

When cross, feverish and sick give "California Syrup of Figs."

Children love this "fruit laxative," and nothing else cleanses the tender stomach, liver and bowels so nicely.

A child simply will not stop playing to empty the bowels, and the result is, they become tightly clogged with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sours, then your little one becomes cross, half-sick, feverish, don't eat, sleep or act naturally, breath is bad, system full of cold, has sore throat, stomach-ache or diarrhoea. Listen, Mother! See if tongue is coated, then give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the system, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers give "California Syrup of Figs" because it is perfectly harmless; children love it, and it never fails to act on the stomach, liver and bowels.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.—(adv.)

BIGGER BUSINESS

The bigger business coming in almost every line as a result of new conditions, necessarily demands more attention to the accounting end.

Business that seemed easy to follow, has suddenly become complex; the best of business men may often find themselves at sea.

There is only one thing to do: Call in a certified accountant. Your whole business status is put clearly before you, and you know exactly how to proceed.

Aided by United States, Russia Will Do Her Part, Declares Root Mission

Danger Is That Germany May, by Great Masses of Troops or Clever Propaganda, Destroy Kerensky Government.

UP TO UNITED STATES TO SUPPORT KERENSKY

Moral and Financial Aid Must Be Given—General Scott Tells Thrilling Story of Visit to the Russian Front.

Washington, August 8.—Russia, newest of democracies, grows stronger of heart and purpose daily, and with aid from the United States, can be depended upon to do her part in the great war and emerge a powerful state. This was the message brought to President Wilson and Secretary Lansing today by Elihu Root and his fellow members of the American mission sent to Russia three months ago.

Unqualified encouragement from the United States, moral and financial when necessary, is absolutely essential to keeping life in the new government, the commissioners agreed. A separate peace with Germany obviously is their gravest fear. Left to fight along with her present government in control, the president was told, Russia will emerge triumphant and strong, but if either by great masses of troops or clever propaganda, Germany should accomplish the overthrow of the Kerensky government the outlook would be dark indeed.

Only one written report, it is understood, was submitted to Secretary Lansing. It was not made public and may not be. From high sources, it is known, however, that the commission was agreed on virtually all essentials. There may have been differences of opinion as to the best methods for obtaining results, but the opinion of present conditions and high hopes for the future was unanimous.

All Believe in Russia.

None was stronger in his conviction that there is greatest hope for Russia than Mr. Root himself. Though conservative by virtue of long diplomatic and political experience, it was with difficulty that he suppressed his enthusiasm. Other members of the party who shared his optimism and discussed their views were Charles Edward Russell, a former socialist; James Duncan, labor leader, and Major Stanley Washburn, a man of long experience in Russian affairs. The latter two were agreed that one great need of Russia is publicity regarding America's intention in the war.

Mr. Russell went a little further than the others by declaring emphatically in favor of sending American troops to the eastern front immediately. He said their presence would be of the greatest value in strengthening the morale of the Russians.

The military members of the mission, headed by Major General Hugh Scott, had a thrilling story to tell of experiences on the Russian firing line. They were under fire during one of the great offensives launched after the new government took the reins.

The return and reports of the mission were about as informal and as devoid of secrecy and red tape as anything Washington has witnessed in a long time. The members arrived this morning on a regular train and throughout the day smilingly answered inquiries and seemed anxious to help in every way to disseminate the information they had acquired. Final work on the report began shortly after their arrival and it was ready early this afternoon.

The mission, headed by Mr. Root, called at the white house in the afternoon and remained with the president about an hour. Members of the National Woman's Party made futile attempts to use a banner addressed to Mr. Root, but he entered and left the white house yard by a side gate while the women waited for him out in front.

The work of the commission is virtually ended. Its members will remain here a few days, and with the exception of the army officers then will return to their homes.

Why Revolution Won.

In explanation of the apparent ease which the Russian people have thrown off the forms of a despotic monarchy and turned so readily to the idea of representative government, Mr. Root referred to the fact that the population is nearly 80 per cent agricultural. The farmers had long been accustomed to the idea of local self-government through their mayors in their little communities, and, in a larger way, through the zemstvos which gathered in every district and exercised large measure of control over local affairs. It was comparatively easy to expand the idea of local self-government to national self-government.

"The extreme element, that favoring the destruction of all property, has been gotten under control," said Mr. Root. "In fact, it had practically been driven out of its temporary accendancy before the commission left Petrograd. I believe its exclusion is permanent.

"We took a long time to form this government of the United States of America," said Mr. Root, adding with a smile, "and I judge from the newspapers that we have not yet perfected it and that a good deal remains to be done. It will take some time for the new Russian government to take form, though it is a fact that in the short period of its existence remarkable progress has been made in that direction."

America's Part for Russia.

America's part in the reorganization of Russia, Mr. Root said, already has been indicated. What is needed are moral support, railway materials, money and expert help in the development if industries.

Evidently Mr. Root had no fear of repudiation by Russia of her financial obligations, for he called attention to the fact that so far as Russian currency is concerned at present, it is in no worse condition than was the paper money of the federal government in the United States during the civil war.

Mr. Root declined to discuss the military situation in Russia, or the personnel of the present Russian government or the prospects of the continuance of individual officeholders.

Breaking all precedents in the history of such diplomatic commissions which generally are supposed to be surrounded by extreme secrecy and which communicate their conclusions verbally to head of the government, the mission has prepared a report for submission today to Secretary Lansing.

General Scott declined to discuss any of the political aspects of the mission, but was firm in the belief that Russia was sound at heart.

"A people held down for years has been suddenly told it was free to do as it pleased," he said. "There was an orgy of liberty, but now they are settling down. Every day sees a little improvement. Russia is sound at heart."

General Scott Praises Russ Troops.

General Scott said that the work of the Russian troops in the offensive he watched early in July could not be improved upon. He was greatly impressed by the work of the artillery.

When the American party arrived at Tarnopol on that visit to the front, an Austrian airplane was over the town dropping bombs. The Russian guns were vainly seeking to bring the machine down.

The next day they saw from the corps commander's trench the battle map unrolled before them with guns drumming at the trenches about to be assaulted.

Next morning the assault began with redoubled artillery fire. Fearing they might be in the way the Americans clambered out of the commander's trench into a wheat field and watched the fight from the open.

At the given moment the Russian infantry swept over the top while the storm of shells was raised to form a barrier behind them. The Russian advance swept forward without pause and disappeared into the Austrian lines.

Soon groups of men came straggling back. General Scott said he thought it had been a repulse at first, but they were prisoners. More than 8,000 Austro-Germans surrendered at the first rush.

While they watched the fighting, the Americans received a message from the Russian brigade commander saying the Austrian guns were getting his range, and asking that the American party withdraw, fearing that they might be attracting the fire which threatened his telegraph and telephone lines. General Scott and his party complied, taking up another post of observation.

Few Signs of Warfare.

When General Scott and his officers went up to the corps commander's observation post the day before the fight, they were told that an Austrian shell had landed in the post a few days before, killing an officer of the Russian general staff who was on duty there. For that reason it was necessary for the Americans to observe great caution in approaching the post. The shot had been a chance one and the Russian officers did not want the Austrians to find out how close they had been hitting to the brain center of the army that faced them.

There were few signs of warfare about, General Scott said. No guns were to be seen, although to the rear observation balloons were in the air guiding the fire of the heavy guns farther back. In front of the post lay a village with children playing in the streets. Peasants were cultivating their fields. The guns were rumbling far and near, but the birds were singing, flowers blooming and there was little to indicate the bloody scene soon to be enacted.

Crawling in through a narrow opening, the American officers found themselves in a snug bomb-proof, with a long narrow slight through the earth in front, which showed below the Russian and Austrian trench lines. As they looked, the crash of a gun came almost at their side. It was snugly hidden in the edge of the village. Another roar located another gun in a peaceful grain field at one side. No airplane scout could have seen these weapons from above.

From the rear, great shells came howling over the top of the observation post to hurl up great spurts of dirt from the trench where the Austrians cowered. Hit after hit was scored with perfect precision as the Americans watched.

After the advance had swept forward, General Scott and his party went to inspect the guns. The commander of one four-gun battery told him he had fired 800 shots between 9 a. m., when the attack began, and 11 a. m., when the visitors reached his station. That one battery had poured out shells worth $50,000 in two hours.

GEORGIA FOOD CROPS SHOW GREAT INCREASE

State Will Do Its Share in Feeding World, Asserts R. A. Stratford.

Georgia will do her part and more in the way of feeding the world during the course of the war, according to R. A. Stratford, government demonstration agent, who is co-operating with the State College of Agriculture.

Mr. Stratford, while in Atlanta Wednesday, asserted that Georgia will produce a food crop this year of at least 30 per cent larger size than that of last year. His estimate is based on 2,500 inquiries recently sent out to farmers in middle Georgia.

According to Mr. Stratford the corn crop, especially in middle Georgia, will show an increase of 30 per cent; sweet potatoes 100 per cent; velvet beans 250 per cent.

"While Georgia imports $85,000,000 of food and feedstuff, this will be materially decreased this year, and her exports will go beyond any year in her history. Georgia at present is independent in only one food staple and that is corn. However, we are sending out an immense quantity of cotton seed meal and oil."

Mr. Stratford is one of the 110 men employed by the United States department of agriculture in Georgia, all operating under the Smith-Lever bill and in conjunction with the state department of agriculture.

CHARLES SHEA WILL INSPECT THE WORK ON GREAT MEMORIAL

Within the next few days Charles Shea, a prominent sculptor from Kentucky and Ohio, will visit Atlanta for the purpose of inspecting the progress of the memorial now under construction at Stone Mountain for the Daughters of the Confederacy.

Mr. Shea is a former colleague of Solon Borglum and is the creator of many beautiful masterpieces in marble and bronze which ornament parks and cemeteries in southern Ohio and Kentucky.

It is possible that he will accept a commission with the present contingent now at the mountain studio to assist in the gigantic task, as it is known that an effort was made several months ago to obtain his services.

Less Leniency Is Shown To Men Who Are Married By the New York Boards

New York, August 8.—Exemption boards throughout the city were less lenient today in selecting men under the draft. Those who had been married recently were informed that the ceremony would prove no bar to military service if they met other requirements of the law. In one district five men in this class were denied exemption, and the board announced it would follow this policy in all similar cases.

The first denial of exemption came in the claim of a mechanic for a motor company, earning $30 a week. He married a stenographer employed by the same company, June 20. She was earning $15 a week. His employers supported his claim for exemption, testifying the company was engaged in government work and that he was indispensable to the business. Two other men in the same district who had claimed exemption on similar grounds, promptly withdrew their pleas.

Other notable instances were those of young business men, who, although married, had no children. In the case of Jesse C. Gerowe, 24 years of age, the board ruled that his wife can live with her parents at Binghamton, N. Y., on the $25 a month he can spare her from his army pay and that she can find employment similar to that she had before her marriage.

The New York district appeal board was organized today with the election of Charles E. Hughes as chairman.

WILSON TO PROBE I. W. W. TROUBLES

President Will Send Agent to Investigate Conditions in West—Judge Covington Is Selected.

Washington, August 8.—President Wilson today took cognizance of the I. W. W. agitation and labor troubles in the west by selecting Chief Justice Covington, of the District of Columbia supreme court, to make a personal investigation of the situation. Justice Covington conferred today with the president and Secretary Wilson, of the department of labor, before starting on his work.

LABOR FEDERATION MEN BARRED FROM BISBEE.

Bisbee, Ariz., August 8.—A committee appointed by the Arizona Federation of Labor to investigate the deportation of more than 1,100 men from the Warren copper mining district July 12 and labor conditions in this camp at present today was refused admission to the district. The delegation was met at Forest Ranch, several miles from Bisbee, and informed that any other than a legal investigation was not wanted at this time.

The Workmen's Loyalty league and the Citizens' League of Bisbee denied all connection with the affair, but it was admitted that some members of each organization participated in it.

Executive committees of both organizations declared that the visitors were coming "with chips on their shoulders," and that, inasmuch as the situation was being investigated by the attorney general, no other investigation was needed. The committee also passed a resolution which, after stating that the speech of one of the labor leaders in Clifton had placed the state federation "squarely in sympathy with the Industrial Workers of the World," closed by stating that "we reiterate that our stand is unalterably opposed to the Industrial Workers of the World and their sympathizers, and not against the state federation of labor, as such; but we refuse to be blinded by the palpable fraud practiced on legitimate and patriotic union labor and declare that we will continue to scrutinize the motives of anyone who desires to re-encumber the Warren district with Industrial Workers of the World and their kind."

Attorney General Wiley E. Jones, who is here investigating conditions, would make no statement as to his intentions.

The labor committee returned to Douglas.

Phoenix, Ariz., August 8.—When he learned investigators of the Arizona State Federation of Labor had been turned back by citizens of the Warren district Governor Thomas E. Campbell intimated today he would take "drastic action" to enforce law and order. He would not say this meant a call for federal troops.

Governor Campbell later telegraphed Attorney General Jones at Bisbee inquiring whether he had started civil action against members of the Citizens' Loyalty league, who had stopped the investigators. If action was not begun at once, the governor stated, a request would be made for federal troops.

WILL TRY MONTGOMERY IN THE FEDERAL COURT

A writ of cumcausa was granted by the United States district court yesterday, transferring to that court the trial of Thomas H. Montgomery, charged with shooting Claud Whidby, in Dawson county, during a moonshine raid.

The case is transferred from Dawson county, where Montgomery, an attache of the United States revenue service, was engaged in a search for liquor traffickers.

The shooting occurred several months ago. Whidby is recovering from his wounds.

Macon Council Opposes Proposed Bill to Govern Public Utilities

Macon, Ga., August 8.—(Special.)—The Macon city council has gone on record as opposed to the bill now pending before the legislature to take away from municipalities in Georgia the right to own and operate gas, electric power, water and other public utilities whenever a private corporation is already operating such a public utility, without first securing the consent of the state railroad commission to do so.

The council has adopted a resolution calling on the senator from this district and the three Bibb county representatives to vote against the bill. Council recently approved a charter amendment to give the city of Macon the right to own and operate an electric lighting plant in connection with the city-owned water plant. A committee of aldermen went to Atlanta to present the charter bill to the local representatives last week, but found the representatives opposed to the bill.
